SLICK STREETS brought the first street accident shortly after 8a.m. today as the Daily Standard truck, driven by Herschel Capshaw was unable to make a complete stop at the corner of Franklin and North streets, and slid into a late model Pontiac, driven by Leona Boyer, 901 Sikes Street. The Pontiac received a broken left headlight and bent fender, while the truck received a dented fender. (Standard Photo)

New Bills Introduced

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Because of the snowy weather the House and Senate met for only a few minutes today to introduce new bills, then quit so members could start their slow treks home for the weekend.

The Senate got a bill to refund one-half cent of the state's three-cent sales taxes to cities and towns, prorated on a population basis. Based on current collections the amount would be $34.6 million a year.

Another new bill would allow legislators over 60 to retire after six years service.

Among the 10 House bills offered were ones to:

Require state licensing of life and health insurance agents.

Permit liquor by the drink licenses in unincorporated areas of Jackson, Platte, Clay and Buchanan counties.

Appropriate $150,000 to clean the mud out of the lake in Big Lake State Park in Holt County.

Require two license plates with luminous figures for automobiles.

Provide special license plates for disabled persons.

Require that the director of the Division of Industrial Inspection be a professional engineer and at least 30 years old.

Let St. Joseph levy a property tax of not more than three mills for firemen's pensions.

Permit state colleges to provide retirement and disability plans for their staffs.

Among the 21 new Senate bills were ones to:

Regulate pre - purchase funeral arrangements. There is no law on the subject now.

Raise the pay of the state purchasing agent from $8,500 to $14,500.

Allow insurance companies to deviate from standard rates and charge higher premiums on high risk policies.

Let third and fourth class counties close county offices, except the sheriff's, on Saturday afternoon.

Establish a state director of safety and fire prevention with broad inspection powers.

CITERNA, Italy AP -- Housewives in this central Italian town are convinced that they made the right choice in electing a woman, Flora Volpini, as mayor.

Arrest Suspect In Carol Sussex Murder

ST. LOUIS (AP) -- A team of detectives, who had been working virtually around the clock for eight days early today arrested a man for the killing Feb. 23 of pretty blonde divorcee Carol Jean Sussex.

Det. Capt. F. J. Pete Vasel said James Dale Edwards, 24, of suburban Hazelwood, signed a statement admitting that he strangled the 27-year-old secretary for no apparent reason.

Edwards was held without bond and booked for first degree murder.

Miss Sussex was found strangled in her apartment the morning of Feb. 23 after fellow employes grew concerned when she didn't show up for work.

A lamp cord was twisted around her neck.

Capt. Vasel said Edwards told this story:

He met Miss Sussex in a North St. Louis County bar and they had several drinks together.

They went to another place, had dinner and later went to the young woman's apartment.

Upon entering, Edwards, on impulse, seized Miss Sussex and strangled her.

Edwards is married but separated. Capt. Vasel said the only reason he gave for the killing was "I guess I wanted my wife to feel sorry for me."

Vasel said he and detectives Bob Crews, Richard Koenig and Fred Mulitch learned that her favorite food was Lasagna, an Italian dish.

The detectives began a check of bars and restaurants and found the place where the young woman had been the night prior to her slaying.

The officers found that she had been with a man and obtained a description of him.

From there they further traced her movements to the bar where Miss Sussex had met the man with whom she ate dinner.

Edwards was picked up the day after Miss Sussex' body was found and held for a time as a material witness but was released on insufficient evidence.

Captain Vasel said he and the other detectives located some witnesses who described Edwards as the man with Miss Sussex the night before she was slain.

Arrested again this morning, Edwards admitted strangling the woman.

Ross Barnett

Ross Barnett To Speak for B.&P.W. Club

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Sikeston will have its seventh annual Woman of the Year night, Thursday, March 18, in the American Legion Hall beginning at 7 p.m. and it is expected there will be a large attendance.

Ross Barnett, of Jackson, former governor of Mississippi has accepted an invitation to speak and will be here.

During Gov. Barnett's four years as chief executive of his state 556 new and expanded industries were secured; income tax rates were reduced from 6 to 3 percent.

A powerful and interesting speaker, Gov. Barnett should prove to be an unusually fine speaker for the women's annual event.

Tickets to the affair may be secured from any member of the B. & P. W.

The selection of a "Woman of the Year" this year may prove to be more difficult than usual in view of the fact more organizations have taken an interest in the selection and are offering candidates for the honor.

Oran City Council Votes For Daylight Savings

ORAN -- All eight members of the Oran City Council voted in favor of adopting daylight savings time at a meeting Tuesday night.

Today, employes of the International Hat Co., Oran's biggest single employer, also unanimously favored the measure in a poll taken at the company's plant.

Oran's mayor, Dr. I. C. Mattingly, said the council feels daylight time would give citizens more time for leisure, promote recreational activities, especially among young people, and attract industry to southeast Missouri.

Although Oran citizens have followed daylight time in past years by mutual agreement among the town's businessmen, it has never been officially adopted, Dr. Mattingly said.

First step in implementing the council's decision will be to send a recommendation to the Missouri Legislature urging the adoption of daylight time for the whole state. Sen. Albert M. Spradling Jr. of Cape Girardeau told Dr. Mattingly he favors daylight time and will recommend it to the Legislature, the mayor reported.

In the event that the Legislature does not act on the measure, Dr. Mattingly said Oran's council will probably make it a municipal law.

John R. Lee

To Represent Morley H. S. On Pilgrimage

MORLEY The sophomore class of Morley high school has selected John R. Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lee, of Morley, to represent the class on the Sophomore Pilgrimage to Jefferson City, sponsored by the Morley Study Club, April 13.

The faculty chose the upper five of the class according to their grades and then the class selected Lee to make the trip.

The bus will leave Advance at 7 a.m. April 12 and return the following day.

The United Church Women of Sikeston are again sponsoring the World Day of Prayer tomorrow at the Tanner Street Church of God at 7 p.m. and the public is invited.

World Day of Prayer is observed annually.

Women from different denominations will participate in the program and the speaker will be the Rev. Joseph Wagner, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Judge Wright Holds One for Circuit Court For Larceny

NEW MADRID: Roscoe Hall of Parma this week waived preliminary hearings before Magistrate Erie Wright in the New Madrid County Magistrate Court on charges of grand larceny and two counts of burglary and larceny.

Judge Wright remanded Hall to the Circuit Court for trial at a later date and set his bonds at $1000 on each charge.

Hall, along with two others, escaped from the New Madrid County Jail for a brief period last summer. Hall and a fellow escapee, Leo Gee, also of Parma were recaptured in East St. Louis, Illinois, after their abbreviated time of freedom.

Pauline Jennings Adams, charged with felonious assault, was also held for the Circuit Court with bond set at $1000. She, too, waived preliminary hearings before the magistrate.

Driving while intoxicated brought a fine of $120 to Sterling McKinley Jennings this week. He also was sentenced to serve six months in the County Jail and had his driver's liscense suspended for one year.

John Trimble, charged with driving as an unlicensed operator and with improper registration of a motor vehicle, paid a total of $16.

Two of six truckers fined for exceeding legal load limits paid more than $100 this week. Caravan Refrigerator Cargo, Inc., paid $245 for an overload of 3,000 pounds; and Laudell Ash paid $130 for an overage of 1850 pounds.

Other offenses were: vehicle overlength — Boyd Brothers, $15; no operator's license — Samuel Laudell Ash, $15; no trailer liscense — J. D. French, $11; careless and reckless driving — Jerry Glen Foster, $45; improper registration of a motor vehicle — J. D. French, $15; no PSC sticker — Jones Truck Line, $15.

New Madrid Co. Residents Paid $186,965.97 In Relief

NEW MADRID: County recipients of assistance from various funds disbursed by the New Madrid County Welfare Office for the month of February were paid a total of $186,965.-97 in checks with the greatest part of that amount going to those on the Old Age Assistance list of the Welfare Agency.

Fred Sheeter, director of the office at New Madrid, reported that there were 1,458 persons on the Old Age Assistance rolls and they received a total of $87,980 in benefits for the month. Average Old Age Assistance check was $60.34.

A total of 593 New Madrid County families with 1,862 children received $60,135 in the Aid to Dependent Children category, Average check per family for this group was $101.-41.

From General Relief funds, 215 families of 246 persons each received a total of $14,607, or an average check of $59.38.

There were 230 perons on the rolls in the Permanently and Totally Disabled field of the welfare service who received an average check of $64.64. The total for the month in this category was $14,867.

New Madrid County had 86 persons on the pension for the blind list and each received $75 for a total of $6,450.

There were 62 children under Child Welfare Supervision during the month of February. Service was given to 60 children and service was completed to none, leaving a caseload of 62 at the end of the month. Of these children now being given services, 42 are in the homes of their parents or residing with relatives, 14 are in foster boarding homes, five are in adoptive homes, and one is in foster group care.

Amount spent for room and board, clothing, medicine, dental care and incidentals for the children under Child Welfare Supervision from the New Madrid County Court for the month was $343. Amount expended from State Boarding funds was $348.19. Amount expended under the Drug and Dental Program totaled $2,-235.78 for the month.

Cairo Insurance Agent is Robbed. Beaten near Wyatt

CHARLESTON, Mo. -- (Special)--A Cairo insurance agent told Mississippi County authorities he was robbed Tuesday night of his day's collection, reportedly amounting to several hundred.

Bob Henshaw, agent for the Commonwealth Life and Accident Insurance Co., of Cairo, said the robbery occurred about 3 miles southwest of Wyatt on a rural road.

He described his assailants as three or four Negro men who were driving an old model black Ford car. They apparently had stopped on the road and flagged Henshaw, supposedly to ask for assistance.

The robbery was reported to have occurred about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

15 Killed In Explosion

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP)- A high-pressure natural gas pipeline exploded in a residential area north of here early today and officials said at least 15 and possibly more persons were killed.

Norman Fletcher, Natchitoches Parish Civil Defense director, said nine of the 15 known dead were children. Two or three persons unaccounted for also are children, he said.

At least nine persons were taken to a hospital for treatment of injuries. Their conditions were not serious.

The blast occurred on Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. 32-inch line shortly after 6 a.m.

The blast and billowing flames destroyed five frame homes across State Highway 1 from the country club. Eight automobiles were melted by the intense heat.

Flames leaped upward of 400 to 500 feet in the cloudless sky and seared an area about 200 yards square in the vicinity of the five houses. A crater 200 yards wide was created.

The flames kept back rescue workers until Tennessee Gas crews managed to shut off the flow of gas.

Bodies of the victims were taken to the National Guard Armory, where Dr. Charles Cook, the parish coroner, began the task of identification.

Rescue crews searched the rubble as the flames died out in a hunt for more bodies.

Natchitoches is in northwest Louisiana about 100 miles southeast of Shreveport.

Mitchell is Candidate For Maharajah

The Lions Club wants to elect a Maharajah to take part in the forthcoming Follies to be presented under the sponsorship of the Junior Woman's Club, and by unanimous acclamation, Charlie Mitchell was designated as the honoree at the club's Wednesday noon meeting. Henry Bussey was equally enthusiastically nominated to be campaign manager.

The Maharajah campaign was explained to the club by Mrs. Bob Dyer who, with Miss Linda Freeman, manager of the Maharajah project for the women's organization.

A picture of the "Maharajah" in his regal robes is to be taken and placed in each of the banks with an appeal for votes. Votes are a penny apiece and there is no maximum limit on how many votes one can cast.

Every male service club in town is to be asked to nominate and campaign for a Maharajah so as time for the Follies draws closer there could be some hectic races to say nothing of a slight strain on the family budget.

There was no program at the meeting which was for business matters only.

Clem Beal, club president, announced the club had been asked to nominate a candidate for the annual Man of the Year award to be made at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on April 1 and he appointed Charles L. Blanton III and Bernard Rice as a committee to nominate a candidate.

The club also voted to continue meeting at the Rock for the next quarter.

MADISON, Wis. AP -- William S. Fields filed his aldermanic election campaign expense report with the city clerk's office Tuesday. He said his lone contribution was 29 cents from his wife, Donna. Fields said it went for writing paper.

U. S. Indicts Catron Man For Bogus Bills

The United States District Court grand jury returned an indictment Wednesday charging Samuel Ray Eaton, 34, of Catron, Mo., with passing $2500 in bogus $10 bills.

Eaton was arrested Feb. 23 by Secret Service agents from St. Louis, deputies from the New Madrid County Sheriff's office, and Marston, Mo., police. Agents said the bogus bills had been turning up in limited amounts around southeast Missouri for several months. They said Eaton was selling the bills for 40 cents on the dollar.

The maximum penalty upon conviction is 15 years in prison and a $5000 fine.

LINCOLN'S NOBLEST WORDS

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S second inaugural address, delivered just 100 years ago, on March 4, 1865, for loftiness of language ranks among the great speeches of all time, and certainly among Lincoln's greatest utterances. It was a majestic restatement of national unity. Friendly toward the enemy, Lincoln refused to blame the South for the war, and counseled his countrymen to "judge not, that we be not judged."

"Both read the same Bible and pray to the same God," Lincoln told the people massed about the east portico of the Capitol, "and each invokes His aid against the other." It was magnainimity of a leader confident of victory -- Lee surrendered on April 9, barely a month later -- but it was also the magnainimity of one who had steadfastly worked to avoid the conflict. Lincoln's first inaugural address had been a moving plea for tolerance and understanding to avert war between North and South.

"THE OFFICE of an inaugural address," President Taft was to postulate in opening his own 44 years later, "is to give a summary outline of the main policies of the new administration, so far as they can be anticipated." In his brief address Lincoln made no attempt to be concrete about the future, nor did he review the events of his first four years in office.

The Second Inaugural begins in almost pedestrian fashion. The first sentence is a flat statement of fact: "Fellow - Countrymen: At this second appearing to take the oath of the Presidential office there is less occasion for an extended address than there was at the first." Only two sentences later he begins to speak of the "great contest" which clearly absorbs his mind and soul. With Biblical diction Lincoln proceeds until he arrives at his scriptural text: "Woe unto the World because of offenses; for it must needs be that offenses come, but woe to that man by whom the offense cometh."

Lincoln pledges if need be to continue the war "until all the wealth piled by the bondsman's two hundred and fifty years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid with another drawn with the sword." And then comes the sublime peroration:

With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations.

LORD CURZON, chancellor of Oxford, once listed the Second Inaugural and the Gettysburg Address as among the three masterpieces of English eloquence -- "the glories and treasures of mankind." Of the Lincoln eloquence Curzon said: "It sets one to inquiring, with nothing short of wonder, 'How knoweth this man letters, having never learned?'"

David C. Mearns, head of the Library of Congress manuscripts division and a lifelong Lincoln scholar, while admitting to a personal preference for Lincoln's Farewell to Springfield speech, appraises the Inaugural as "the finest expression Lincoln ever gave to his peace aims." On April 11, 1865, virtually the eve of his martyrdom, Lincoln in his last speech returned to the theme of reconstruction. With consistent generosity he said: "Concede that the new government of Louisiana is . . . as the egg is the fowl, we shall sooner have the fowl by hatching the egg than smashing it."

Three nights later this man without malice was silenced by malice most foul.

SPEAKING OF LABELS. . . .

Many well - known writers, professors and commentators would have us believe there are no Communists in America to speak of and no Socialists worth bothering about. There are only "liberals," as opposed to "conservatives."

But what makes a Socialist? Norman Thomas, a sincere and honest Socialist, says: "The advocacy of public power does not of itself make a Socialist . . . But, of course, the principle behind public development of power is socialist, and it is rather childish to deny it."

Yet, a great many people do deny it. Likewise, they would deny it is socialistic for government to fix wages and prices, or to place controls over business profits. But it is just as childish to deny that these are socialistic as to deny public power is socialistic, and Mr. Thomas, who ought to know, makes that much clear.

Socialism generally has failed to work. That is one reason "liberals" deny that any of their programs are socialistic. Another reason is that Americans do not like socialism, although they can be misled as to what is and what is not socialism.

Government currently is delving into the labeling of consumer products. It ought to be equally concerned about labeling of legislative programs; it ought to call them socialistic when they are -- and see whether the American people will go for them when they are correctly labeled.

LIKE THE PLAGUE

Power produced in a government - owned, or socialized, electric system does precisely the same jobs in precisely the same way as power produced in an investor - owned, private enterprise system. It makes the lights burn, turns the motors, powers the appliances, and so on down the long list of electricity's vast capabilities.

But there the resemblance ends. For government power does not pay a return equal to the value of the capital it takes from the people through taxation. And government power's tax payments are but a small fraction of those paid by investor - owned utilities -- slightly more than three per cent of revenues as against about 24 per cent.

How important are these two items? A spokesman for the Edison Electric Institute has answered that question with statistics of record. Power production requires $4.50 for each dollar of annual revenue. At a minimum figure, capital is worth 5 per cent of that investment. Taxes take another 5 per cent of the investment, for a total of 10 per cent. And 10 per cent of $4.50 is 45 cents -- just about half of the revenue.

According to the Institute spokesman, when adjustment is made for the two items, capital cost and taxes, government power is no lower in price than in private -- and, in most cases, it is higher.

These are facts that socialized power advocates avoid like the plague -- and facts that seem to have much less public recognition than they deserve. They show why those advocates throw up their hands in horror when the eminently fair and reasonable proposal is made that government systems pay the same taxes and capital costs that are borne by the investor - owned utilities.

In one chapter of A Surfeit of Honey (Harper), Russell Lynes tries to dope out what young women want their prospective husbands to be. He must be what the girls call 'well-rounded.'

Continuing, though unbelieving, Lynes says the girls' ideal is 'affable, friendly, and trustworthy, and he tries to be all things to all people. He gets on easily with everybody, everybody, that is, who is also well-rounded and even with a few who are not. He is conservative in his tastes for furniture, foods, entertainments, and women. . .'

The specifications continue for another two hundred words. Lynes concludes: "The well-rounded man. . .is not an individual; he is just a generality. He is a statistical meatball, the lean and the fat all ground together.'

The nation's independent business enterprises during 1964 did cut a swath in the ranks of the unemployed. This was accomplished by expanding to provide more jobs. And despite the fact that there has been widespread belief that the 1964 income tax cut was a powerful impetus, the majority of the independent businessmen do not report any beneficial affect from this move.

This is contained in the first preliminary compilation of the 1965 field survey being conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business, which encompasses only the first week's returns, totalling 1,569 respondents in 31 states.

Of this total, 34.6 % report they expanded operations last year, providing 1,268 new jobs, or an average of 2.33 new jobs per expanding enterprise.

Projected over the nation's 4,500,000 independent business enterprises, the results of this first sample would indicate that 1,557,000 such businesses expanded, developing 3,627,810 new jobs.

During the 12 months of 1964 in a special field survey the Federation asked independent businessmen their intentions of expanding. The year end compilation based on slightly more than 68,000 respondents, indicated that only 23.9 planned expansion, but in doing so providing 4.7 new jobs per expanding firm. This projected over the entire 4,500,000 businesses gave a potential new job development of 5,524,850.

Thus, while so far the figures indicate more firms expanded than was planned, the new jobs created fall below the estimates given by the respondents last year.

The Federation research people, when more surveys are completed, will make further studies in this area. At the present time on the basis of survey responses, it appears that a possible major block to further expansion is lack of access to capital, and particularly long term capital.

As the results stand so far, the expanding respondents report a cumulative investment of $9,841,250, or an average of $16,312.26 per firm.

In 12 states where there are so-called "right to work laws" permitted by Section 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act, so far there appears to be greater confidence by independent business, as in those states 37% were found to have expanded last year, compared to a national average of 34.6%.

Reversing what has been a generally held opinion, only 35.8% of the respondents to date feel that the 1964 income tax reduction furnished any impetus to expansion.

On the other hand, the independent business proprietors give credit to other tax reforms for encouraging expansion. The 20% first year depreciation measure that was passed in 1958, the 17% depreciation speed up, and the 7% investment credit all register from 6% to 9% higher than the income tax cut as measures that encouraged expansion and more employment.

This same attitude appears to be reflected in the opinions registered so far on what further tax revision will encourage expansion and more jobs.

On the long debated "plowback allowance" favored by the Senate Small Business Commitee, which would permit a business to invest back in the business tax-free 20% of a year's profits up to a maximum of $30,000. 82.2% are in favor, while 62.1% are in favor of increased tax deductions for their own retirement programs, and 34.8% have so far voted for cuts in excise taxes. The long debated proposal in Washington to revise the tax structure to eliminate allowances and deductions and have a lower tax rate is only looked upon with favor by 16% of the respondents so far.

The support for the "plowback allowance" is substantially higher than that registered for either further government action in the field of pricing, or control of misleading advertising.

Commenting on the results of the 1965 field survey to date, C. Wilson Harder, president of the National Federation of Independent Business, said that the sample, although about equivalent in size to that used by many research organizations, is too small to draw definite conclusions.

Even when this sample reaches our usual total of around 70,000 respondents, it is to be expected that several things will remain unchanged.

One thing, will be further proof furnished that given half a chance, small and independent business can and will solve the unemployment problem.

Our lawmakers must realize that vital as our big industrial complexes are to the nation, with automation they are becoming less and less of a factor in the employment picture. Government economists who are big industry oriented and who feel that it requires $20,000 to $30,000 investment to provide a new job should study the findings of our 1965 survey. Results so far show that in 1964 independent business investment in new jobs was only $6,972 per new job created. Obviously, if the Congress should finally take action on the long delayed "plowback allowance" independent business expansion and jobs will go forward at a greatly accelerated pace.

As soon as the survey has been underway for a few more weeks, and there has been time to have representations from all the states, complete computerized data will be issued on all the 21 sections of the survey, broken down state by state.

By the end of the first quarter, the Federation will have the only complete data on what is happening in the area of independent business.

THE ISSUE LIVES ON

The furor over the use of pesticides and other chemicals in agriculture -- which was spurred to white heat by the appearance of a book whose excellence of presentation obscured its many extremely controversial conclusions -- has abated. But that does not mean it is a dead issue. Far from it --- this is one of those issues and problems which is destined to live on and which suffers from a lack of the general understanding that is needed.

Two points which are generally agreed upon in informed circles are paramount.

First of all, the amazing productivity of American agriculture -- which is not only responsible for our abundance of food, but for keeping prices within reach of the American family -- is in large measure dependent on chemicals, including those which kill insects, fungus, disease, and other natural enemies. This dependence will increase, and we will have to supply a growing population from a fixed farm acreage. Some have gone so far as to say that actual famine would be a future possibility without the pesticides.

Second, the danger to humans and wildlife that some chemicals may contain are not builtin and inescapable. The fault lies in their improper use. The manufacturers provide necessary instructions and warnings -- it is up to the applier to follow them. Here there can be no question of the need for continuous education, alertness and constructive action.

We do not urge excessively restricting the use of automobiles, household cleaners, guns or innumerable other commodities because in the hands of the careless or the ignorant they are dangerous. The same sound principle should apply to agricultural chemicals.

AIR FORCE BREADLINE NOT EASILY BROKEN OFF

Bread lines, once started, are hard to break off, Tax Foundation, Inc., noted today.

When the U. S. Air Force bakery in Peshawar, Pakistan, ran short of bakers and had trouble with a new base oven last November, bread was requisitioned from the States.

The first shipment, 4,500 pounds, was flown into Peshawar from Karachi last January 20. The bakery oven and manning troubles were corrected by March 1. But the frozen bread continued to arrive -- another 9,500 pounds by June 15.

A military spokesman explaining the arrival of three shipments after orders to cancel said the flow of dough (frozen) couldn't be halted "due to completion of procurement action stateside."

NATIONAL INDEX TO CITE COSTS OF LITTERBUG ACTS

Formation of a National Litter Index to measure the activity of litterbugs in the years ahead has been announced by Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national public service organization for the prevention of litter.

KAB said that since litter is a continuing problem, and "the potential of this menace will grow" as more cars take to the road, there is need for a "barometer" to help the thousands of litter fighters throughout America keep track of the progress being made in the face of the growing litter potential.

The Index will be based on the annual cost of removing litter from primary state highways in 50 states and the number of miles traveled in the same year by vehicles on these highways.

Since the state highway departments spent $22 million in cleaning up their highway systems in 1963 with vehicles traveling 324 billion miles, the cost comes to seven-thousandsof a cent per mile, KAB explained.

The 1963 figure will become the starting base figure --- '100' on the Index. Each future year's cleanup cost will be measured to show whether the "litterbugs are in retreat" or that they are strewing more litter than before.

THINKING FREEDOM THROUGH

It is not sufficient just to be for freedom. We must know why we are for it.

Freedom may, and should, inspire our souls. But if we do not use our heads we will never keep it.

Freedom is not good simply because we are used to it or happen to like it. It is not good just because our Founding Fathers, great as they were, loved it. To take freedom for granted or by custom is a contradiction in terms and we will not keep it long on those terms.

Freedom is good because it makes possible a man living the kind of life proper to men. A beast of burden can do the work of a slave. A lion, a tiger or a shark can plunder and destroy. The leader of a band of baboons can rule by force.

But man has a reasoning mind and a constructive will. He can use that mind and will to build a better life for himself and everyone around him. So long as there is freedom, those men who do use their minds and will in this way will succeed.

But when freedom is destroyed, men are crushed and reduced to hopeless, endless labor or savage marauding.

Freedom gives every man a chance, and the most competent and diligent the best opportunity to succeed. Centralized power gives nobody a change except those who are a part of the ruling machinery, and they soon become potential dictators.

Freedom and force are enemies; they cannot coexist.

"Don't Get Us Wrong, Officer, We're Putting Money IN"

ROSS LEWIS, MILWAUKEE JOURNAL

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK AP -- "As with most women, I am not at my best in the morning," said Gina Lollobrigida.

"The day should start at noon. If I am going to have a fight with someone, I have it in the morning. If I have a pleasant romantic rendezvous, I like it in the afternoon or evening."

These opening remarks as we sat down to luncheon left me somewhat in a dilema. Should I put up my dukes, or recite a love sonnet to Miss Lollobrigida?

The dark - haired Italian actress is tempestuous as well as beautiful. Critics have said many things about her many-faceted personality. She herself once remarked drily, "I am an expert on Gina."

Here, then, is Gina on Gina and on life:

"I live wherever I'm working. I fly so much home is where I am now.

"I like to have few but good friends. Enthusiasm. My son more than anything else in the world. The color red when I feel good, black when I'm moody. Gardenias, antique furniture and Etruscan vases. I'd rather spend my money on art than jewels or furs.

"I like red wine, Alastian wolf hounds -- the big animals not little ones -- summer, emeralds, reading Sartre, Chekhov, Steinbeck and Faulkner; listening to classical or jazz music, soft lights, the smell of babies, people with strong personalities, Chinese food and shish kebab.

"I don't like dishonesty, insincere people, ennui, to be late to engagements, the wind, neon lights, sleeping in airplanes and waking to find I don't have my feet on the ground, small insects.

"When I have a nightmare, I dream a bee is going into my ear. The thing I am most afraid of is flies.

"My moods are like an elevator -- always going up or down. My biggest fault is that I'm insecure most of the time. I envy people who can think straight all the time, who always know just what they want. I'm not that way.

"To me life is surprise-- and I like that. I don't like programs. It's much better to wonder about tomorrow.

"My philosophy is simple. It is this -- that tomorrow is a good day.

"Today is important, too, of course, but I never think about the past. It makes me sad. I don't regret what I did. I would make the same decisions again.

"But when we remember it is like watching a different person, because we are always changing in life.

"I don't want to live behind me.

"Who likes to look at dead flowers?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

En route through the Caribbean — carrying out President Johnson's idea of spending U.S. dollars on the beautiful scenery of the USA, I write today about one of our greatest tourist attractions, a three-hour flight from New York — the Virgin Islands.

I must confess a certain amount of personal prejudice regarding these islands, because my father, Paul M. Pearson, was their first civilian governor. He took over when they were a ragtag, down-at-the-heel, unknown set of islands which President Herbert Hoover called an "effective poorhouse." My father had persuaded Hoover to come to the islands in order to publicize them and I remember how stung he and other islanders were when Hoover held up their poverty for the world to see.

Mr. Hoover was, of course, right. We had purchased the islands from Denmark in 1917 because we feared the Kaiser would take over the wonderful natural harbor of St. Thomas as a submarine base. But having purchased the Virgins we did nothing about them for the next 15 years, and in 1931 the efficient Mr. Hoover would have liked to turn them back to the Danes — free.

Little did he realize — nor did most people — that the azure blue of the Caribbean, the quaint streets of St. Thomas, the pristine beauty of St. John, and the palm-studded beaches of St. Croix would be worth millions of tourist dollars.

The new governor, faced with the problem of bringing a modicum of prosperity to this poverty-stricken area, saw that its chief asset was its beauty. He tried some other remedies — the revival of sugar and rum —but the chief economic salvation of the Virgin Islands, he figured, was beauty.

—A GOVERNMENT HOTEL—

At that time, however, there was only one old-fashioned hotel on the islands. There was not one adequate restaurant; and the bathing beaches, though beautiful, had no accommodations for dressing. Furthermore, no airplanes went to the Virgin Islands. In 1931 there was one little mail boat which crossed from Puerto Rico twice a week and took about half a day to get there. The steamship trip from New York required about four days.

So the governor had to build the tourist traffic from the ground up.

The first thing he did was to persuade the Interior Department in Washington to permit him to organize a government company, the Virgin Islands Corporation, to start a hotel, and go into the tourist business.

This was thirty years before the Commerce Department started its present tourist office to entice tourists to the United States. In 1931-32, however, the Republican Administration of Herbert Hoover set up a government corporation which not only went into the rum and sugar businesses but bought an old castle once used by the famed pirate, Bluebeard, and turned it into the first real hotel on the islands.

Democrats in Congress yelled "socialism." However, the plan worked. Other hotels were built, these by private enterprise, and gradually tourists began going to the Virgin Islands.

The new civilian governor also started entertainment festivals, similar to those now conducted in Cape Cod, Venice, Italy, and along the Adriatic Coast of Yugoslavia.

This aroused another storm of criticism. Sen. Millard Tydings, Maryland Democrat, and Ralph Paiwonsky, Democratic National Committeeman and father of the present governor, screamed "waste of the taxpayers' money," and started a Senate investigation.

—SENATE INVESTIGATES—

It was discovered, however, that the new governor had persuaded the musical talent to come to the islands without salary, had persuaded the Bull Line to contribute free passage, and had borrowed the costumes from old Chautauqua warehouses.

My father also organized the Virgin Islands Cooperative among native women, to weave baskets and make mats for sale to the tourists. He persuaded the cruise ships to stop at St. Thomas, and gradually the islands began to attract people from the mainland of the United States.

Today, the first civilian governor, were he alive, would have no difficulty recognizing the beautiful bathing beaches, the quaint streets, the roads curving around the hilltops of the islands which he loved. But he would not recognize the new hotels, the glamorous restaurants, the night clubs, the throngs of tourists.

He would rub his eyes at the giant airport of St. Croix, to which Pan American operates nonstop jets from New York, cutting the travel time down from four days by steamship to three hours by air.

And he would be especially delighted with the small island of St. John. It had a population of 700 people when Father was governor, and its population is not much more than that today. This is one of its charms. In Caneel Bay you can snorkel for a mile or so watching the rainbow-colored fish, the coral, the sand made emerald green by the sunlight and the water.

The old stone sugar mills, which brought slavery and prosperity to the island more than one hundred years ago, still stand. But their windmills spin no more and the line of donkeys carrying cane up to their maws moves no more. Cane is cultivated now only on the bigger island of St. Croix, and there is another kind of prosperity on St. John.

It has now been made a national park, thanks to the generosity of Laurence Rockefeller and to the foresight of the first civilian governor, who saw that the Virgin Islands, then an effective poorhouse, could become the most attractive American playground in the Caribbean.

It's one of the places where, as President Johnson suggests, American citizens can spend American dollars without upsetting the balance of payments abroad.

Inside Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

Walter Reuther, Recovered From Lung Surgery, Now Building 'New Unionism' Everywhere

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Walter Reuther's strange bursts of silence have nothing to do with his recent lung operation.

He has fully recovered from surgery of his barrel chest. For a man who does not smoke nor drink he is in good shape and quite ready to use his lung power when the time comes.

But he awaits the moment with caution. He chose silence during the recent session of labor's high command council in Florida because he is a leader-in-waiting in the court of labor.

Reuther has not junked his dreams of unleashing wide organizing drives. Those who think so forget he still is head of the AFL-CIO's national organizing department.

Though publicly he appears to be standing still, he is quietly working behind the scenes with many dynamic young labor leaders who still are as unknown as the last names of Damon and Pythias.

Reuther can afford to wait for these men of the second and third echelon leadership to develop strength — and to build a new unionism.

He is 57. Many of those who have fought him — are his elders by more than a decade. In Florida, Reuther did not try to oust some of the old timers from labor's high command. Instead, he conjectured that the new unionism would drive them out in a year or two.

"There is a new unionism," asserted one of the men who has been his intimate for years. "Things are stirring. Walter is quietly helping them to stir in areas one would least expect to see hard-headed, well organized union drives."

To the Reuther people the new unionism consists of the surging militancy amongst the teachers, insurance company employes, federal workers, those in state, county and municipal offices, and even the new young scientists and technicians of the space age.

Typical are the Reuther-sparking unionizing campaigns to sign-up one million school teachers — not only in the big cities but in suburbia.

The big push amongst the teachers will be the pattern for the assistance in the rest of the non-blue collar and professional fields. Most of this aid comes from a virtually unknown section of the AFL-CIO known as the Industrial Union Dept. (IUD).

Reuther heads it. With a treasury totaling more than $3 million and an affiliated membership of over 5 million it can move hard and swiftly.

In recent months it has set up new teachers' unionizing units every few weeks. The newest are in Long Island, New York, upper Michigan and sections of California.

The strategy is similar to what was devised when Reuther and other IUD officials met in New York City several years back to crack the first target — the big town's 40,000 teachers.

Experienced organizers were brought in. A "very substantial sum of money" was lent to the new United Federation of Teachers. College men were hired as temporary organizers. When money ran short, the IUD signed its guarantee to bank notes for big loans.

Some of Reuther's organizers were in the city for over a year, some for a few months. Thus it has been in Philadelphia, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Boston and a string of other communities across the land.

Leader of the New York teachers, 55-year-old Charles Cogen, later shifted to the national American Federation of Teachers in Chicago. He was replaced in the city by lanky 38-year-old militant, Al Shanker, now talking of striking the huge school system on opening day next September.

None of this is hit and miss. There is a blueprint for action. The IUD matches the money raised by the teachers unions in each locality.

Then manpower is poured in. The drive on the school system is carefully planned after the sociological measurements of the community are taken.

In some fashion or other, this technique is — and will be — used in burgeoning space industries, amongst the technicians and professionals.

Merely substitute a "think factory", a federal bureau, a municipal building, an experimental installation or an insurance firm for a public school and you have the pattern.

While Reuther waits, he makes peace with many of the veterans of the powerful building and construction trades — whose unions number over 3 million members. This he did quite actively in Florida last week.

So, silence from Walter Reuther means nothing. One can be on the march without awakening echoing thunder across the land.

T.E.L. Class Has Monthly Meeting

The T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist Church held its meeting Tuesday night March 2, with 15 members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Martha Anderson and the devotional given by Mrs. Grover Lewis.

Among the business transacted was changing the meeting time from night to day. The April meeting will be a pot-luck dinner, which will be held at the church at 12:30 p.m. on April 6th. The meeting closed with Mrs. Orrin Hunt, teacher, reviewing an article, "If We Fail To Go," by John T. Sisemore.

During the social hour the members exchanged aprons, which was to have been held in February, but postponed due to the inclement weather.

The hostesses were Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Guy Calvin, Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Mary Sisson. The table was decorated with Shamrocks and the color scheme was carried out in the refreshments.

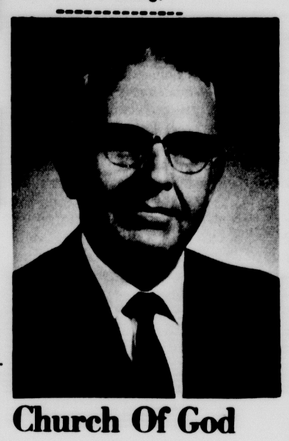
Campbell Pullias Will Be Church Guest Speaker

March 7 marks the beginning of a series of preaching services to be conducted at the Northside Church of Christ, Highway 61 North, Sikeston, Missouri. The speaker for these services will be Campbell Pullias.

Mr. Pullias was formerly minister of the Jackson Avenue Church of Christ in Memphis, Tennessee. Since he and his family have been residing in Sikeston he has preached on a number of occasions at the Northside Church of Christ. He is a very capable and dynamic speaker.

The members of the Northside Church of Christ invite the public to attend these services. These services will continue from March 7 through March 14. The time will be 7:30 each evening.



Church Of God Guest Speaker Is Rev. Richardson

Rev. Charles R. Richardson of Anderson, Indiana, will be guest minister at Tanner Street Church of God March 8-14. Services will be at 7:30 p.m. nightly Monday through Friday and at 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Rev. Richardson has served pastorates in Atlanta, Georgia; Norfolk, Virginia; Los Angeles, California and Danville, Kentucky. From 1950 to 1962 he was State Evangelist for the Church of God in Kentucky.

Rev. Richardson is presently serving as a minister-at-large in the Church of God preaching for special revival services throughout the nation.

Pastor of the local church, Oral Withrow, has announced that members of Tanner Street Church of God will be inviting their neighbors and friends to share in the week of spiritual enrichment and evangelism.

ANN LANDERS
Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is the type who must have the last word -- no matter what it costs him. Well it is now costing him 15 days in jail.

It all started with a speeding ticket. My husband said he was not speeding -- that the cop was laying for him. He refused to pay the ticket and went to court to plead not guilty. When the judge reminded my husband that he had been nabbed for speeding twice in the past two years he got mad and called the judge a name. The judge gave him 15 days.

So now what am I to tell our six-year-old son? How will he feel if he knows his father is in jail? Will it scar him for life? I need answers and I need them now. -- UNDONE.

Dear Un: Do yourself up and tell your son the truth. Explain that people who drive cars must follow the rules or pay the penalty -- which in this case was a jail sentence.

Make it clear that Daddy did not rob a bank or kill anyone but that he did break a law -- and laws must be obeyed if we are to have a world safe for everybody.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son, who will soon be six, plays with some little boys in the neighborhood who are older than he is.

Some of the words he has picked up are not very nice, in fact they are filthy. We are sure he doesn't know what the words mean because he says these words in the presence of guests. Naturally it is very embarrassing to the guests, as well as to us.

It is difficult to conceal shock when he comes up with gutter words, in the presence of the minister, for instance. My husband and I don't know how to deal with the problem and we are enlisting your help. --- PARENTS OF LITTLE BOY BLUE

Dear Parents: Your son will continue to use gutter words so long as they have shock value.

When children use dirty words -- whether guests are present or not -- parents should register no shock or horror. Simply say, "We don't talk like that in our family," and change the subject. If the child persists he should be sent to his room.

By the time they are 12 most kids have heard all the words, or read them on bathroom walls, and nobody ever died from words.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a faithful reader of your column and I'm pleased that you have the courage to tackle certain problems which most people would be inclined to duck. I refer specifically to the careless female who ignores the basics of hygiene, such as soap and water, tooth paste, comb and deodorants.

Your suggestion that the most gentle and understanding woman in the office speak to her is unrealistic, however. In our own office, the most gentle and understanding woman told me "I'd rather die." So I accepted the responsibility because I felt a young girl had to be told.

The poor thing heard me out, then broke down and wept. She finally sobbed, "But nobody ever told me."

For three days she avoided me but I noticed that her appearance improved 100%. Others noticed it too, but I never let on that we had had a chat.

Several days later I received two dozen roses. The card read, "Thank you -- more than words can express." It was unsigned but I know who had sent the bouquet. -- SACRIFICIAL LAMB.

Dear Lamb: A low bow for doing what needed to be done, although it was a difficult and unpleasant chore.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts." enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bloomfield Goes To State

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- "We intend to come back from Columbia as the number one team in the State." That's what Tom Hewgley, Bloomfield Coach, stated after last night's hard earned victory over the surprisingly tough Advance Hornets. The Wildcats won the game 53-47, but they had their moments of doubts before coming in with the win. This is the first Missouri basketball team that has been able to come out leading at the end of the first half.

The Wildcats journey to Columbia for the Semi-Finals in Class "M" State Tournament Friday where they play the defending Class "M" Champions, the Buffalo Bisons. The game will begin at 7:00.

In the early game of the first quarter the Wildcats moved out to lead 6-0 before the Hornets could tell what hit them. Bill Morgan broke the ice for Advance by pulling off a three point play with 5:48 left. The cold-shooting Wildcats came out of the first period leading 13-9.

Bob Moroni got hot the second period to tear loose for ten points. Just two less than the whole team scored in the quarter for Advance. He tied the score for the first time with 2:12 left in the half at 20-20 on a beautiful twisting lay-in. Bloomfield brought the ball back into play only to have a pass picked off. The Hornets froze it until :09 seconds was left. Mike Wise in an attempt to steal the ball drew his third personal foul of the game. Moroni hit the first shot of the one and one situation to end first half scoring with Advance leading 21-20. Moroni made 13 of his 19 point total in their hot scoring first half.

The Wildcats, still suffering from possibly the coldest shooting night they have had all season, could not pull abreast of Advance until Dennis Gillespie broke down the tough defense of the Hornets. He scorched the nets for 11 consecutive points to put the Wildcats into their 34-32 third period lead. He paced all scoring with 25 points for the game.

From there Bloomfield led all the way.

In the Class "S" Game South Iron defeated Wright City 69-45 to continue their hard fighting march to the State Finals.

Bloomfield Can Come Back

How did the Hornets get within range of the Bloomfield Wildcats last night? For one thing they got through the Bloomfield press. Another thing they seemed to be up for the ballgame. Another thing still, Bloomfield did not get to the auditorium until late and the start of the game had to be delayed for fifteen minutes. A trip like the one that they had to make last night can have tiring and psychological effects on a basketball team and from all appearances, that happened to the Wildcats, for they looked real sluggish at the start of the game.

I think that the game may prove beneficial to the Wildcats for they haven't had a close one since their loss to the Memphis Kingsbury Falcons. Another thing impressing about the Wildcats is that they were in trouble, but still they didn't crack. They had to come back from their cold shooting.

If they play like they did last night against the Buffalo Bisons they will probably end up playing for the consolation game at Columbia. If they get back on the track and play their usual tough press defense effectively then they will dehide the Bisons. I personally pick Bloomfield to take the State Tournament. They have what it takes to come back from a game like the one last night.

Wildcats, I would like to congratulate you and wish you the best of luck against the best in the state. This is the first Bloomfield team in history to go to state.

Coaches Should Have Freedom

Did you know that a coach is trained to do his job? Then why do you fans, parents, and players try to run ballclubs? Just like any other club, a ballclub has to have certain rules.

There has to be a team unit that plays together. There has to be hustle, hard work, training, careful body preparation, desire, and unselfishness to be on a basketball team or any team for that matter.

If a young man cannot abide by the rules, then he is not a player on the club in the first place.

And another thing, every coach is a different person with ideas all his own about putting a ballclub together. He has ideas that are different from coaches there previously and he has ideas different from the public's. In the first place if you want a particular type of coach, then be careful in selecting the coach. Don't blame him for running the ballclub the best way he sees fit. Don't you try making a living the best way you see fit?

Still another thing. If a ballplayer does not abide by the rules, even different rules than what he has been accustomed, he should be kicked off the team for the benefit of himself, the team, and the teams to come. It doesn't make any difference if even he is an ace player. Thank you.

Koufax Hurts But Is Still Satisfied

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax hurts all over and Los Angeles Dodger brass couldn't be happier about it.

Koufax reported the usual case of winter hibernation aches and pains following his first workout of the spring Wednesday. Then why the smiles around the Dodgers' Vero Beach, Fla., camp?

Well, Koufax' left arm — the one that wins all those ball games and has earned Sandy three straight National League earned run titles — came through its first test in fine fashion.

Koufax missed the last six weeks of the 1964 season with an inflammation of his left elbow, suffered in a slide at Milwaukee. The 29-year-old Dodger southpaw gave his arm its first test Wednesday and was quite content with the results.

"I ache all over," Koufax said after hurling 15 minutes of batting practice. "About the time I started to get loose, I got too tired to pitch anymore. But there was no trouble with my arm. Everything is fine."

And while Koufax' first workout was brightening the Dodger camp, the San Francisco Giants weren't making much progress with two other pitchers, veteran Bob Shaw, and Japanese lefthander Masanori Murakami.

Shaw won five games in relief early last season before slumping badly and remarked, "If I started poorly last season and finished strong, and wound up with the same won-lost record, they probably would have offered me a raise."

To which Giant Vice President Chub Feeney replied, "If he pitched in the first half the way he did in the second half, he wouldn't have been on the team — he would have been in Tacoma," — a farm team.

The Giants got some moral support from Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick in the Murakami case. The commissioner said "the Giants have proof they legally purchased Murakami's contract. If he fails to report and is suspended, we expect the suspension to be recognized in Japan the same as it is in the United States."

Frick said if the Japanese Baseball Federation does not recognize the Giants' rights to Murakami, "the proposed trip of the Pittsburgh Pirates to Japan next fall will be canceled."

Evansville And Southern Ill. In Third Clash

Evansville's undefeated Aces, defending NCAA college-division basketball champions and No. 1 in The Associated Press small-college poll for the second straight season, are looking forward to a third meeting with Southern Illinois.

Evansville's closest brushes with disaster this season came in two one-point victories over Southern Illinois, which placed third in the final AP poll.

The Aces and the Salukis, starting the NCAA tournament trial in regionals this week, can meet again in Evansville for the small-college championship. To make it, each will have to defeat four opponents in tourney games.

Evansville Coach Arad McCutchan said, "From the standpoint of winning you'd possibly like to play somebody else, but Southern Illinois is a great team and they deserve another shot at us. We wouldn't like to see them rubbed out by some other team."

McCutchan said he and his players have been feeling no special pressure from being unbeaten and favored.

"We try to take a casual attitude toward it," he said. "It may be this is the time it may start. We realize it's one defeat and out."

To avoid staleness, McCutchan is keeping workouts hard but short — no more than 90 minutes for his starters.

Evansville won't get a tournament shot at Central State of Ohio, No. 2 in the small college poll and the only other undefeated team in the Top Ten. Central State is not in the NCAA tourney.

First Round Play Completed In Dexter Regional

Dexter - First round play was completed at the Dexter Class "L" Regional last night with all seeded teams winning their games. The Jackson Indians dumped the Kennett Indians, but not hard, 58-51. Cape Central took a thriller from Fredericktown 75-74 in a come from behind effort.

Jackson (58)
Kennett (51)

Wayne Hennecke scored 25 big tallies to lead the Indians into the victory path. In the first period Jackson was leading 17-15 but Kennett came a charging back the second period to pull up by one 25-24. They continued their assault in the third quarter to pull further into the lead 46-41. Jackson dug in tough to hold the Kennett Indians down to five points the last frame while scoring 17 themselves to come in with the hard earned victory.

Cape (75)
Frederick town(74)

Central led throughout most of the game but the Black Cats staged a blistering last half attack that all but put down the hot and cold Tigers. At the end of the first half Cape was holding a 34-24 advantage. Fredericktown cut away two of the ten they trailed by in the third frame and in the last period they pulled into the lead but couldn't hold on to come in with the victory.

'65 CHEVROLET

These great performers are the lowest priced models at our One-Stop Shopping Center

Top to bottom: Chevy II 100, Corvair 500, Chevelle 300, Chevrolet Biscayne. All 2-door models.

Hard to tell at a glance that each of these beauties is the lowest priced in its line. The ride doesn't show it. Or the interior. Or the performance. Just the price sticker.

That luxurious '65 Biscayne has the room of many expensive cars. Plus a handsome color-keyed interior with plush vinyls, fine fabrics, full deep-twist carpeting.

Chevelle, America's favorite intermediate-size car, has clean new styling, wide-opening doors, roomy, tastefully trimmed interior, and all the easy-care features of the big Chevrolet.

Chevy II got a whole lot smarter for '65—but kept its common sense! Still family-size, easy to handle, economical, and the lowest priced Chevrolet out.

Both Corvair Sport Coupe and Sport Sedan have the international flavor of a rear engine hardtop, promise fun for the months ahead.

Chevrolet, Chevelle and Chevy II are available with the economical Turbo-Thrift Six engine. It's economical, warms up quickly, idles silently. It's light, efficient, quiet, and spirited.

Corvair's rear-mounted Turbo-Air Six delivers the best balance and traction for this size car. It's air-cooled—no water or antifreeze.

So be practical. Check the great offer on your old car, the low payments on your new one. Only you will know how practical you've been. Because it sure won't show!

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

If House Bill 33, now dormant in the Senate Education Committee, is passed by the Missouri General Assembly in its present form, it will mean near $120,000 more school funds per year from the state for our schools in Sikeston. It would take an additional local tax levy of $.83 to equal this amount. With this added money in our budget our Board of Education could make a substantial increase to teacher's salaries and upgrade other educational services so necessary for the improvement of our educational program for the children of the community.

The former and present Comptroller of the State of Missouri, about two months ago, estimated that there would be an additional $162,000,000 in the State Treasury for the biennium. It would require only about $24,000,000 each year to finance the improvements asked for in the school program. So, on the basis of the best evidence, statements from the Comptrollers, the requested school legislation could be financed and still would leave very considerable sums for improvement of other state services. However, in spite of the fact that it appears there would be more than the required funds available, some Senators are using the old excuse "we don't know where the money is coming from" to slow or perhaps prevent this much needed school legislation. All interested persons should make it known to our Senator Albert Spradling of Cape Girardeau that the passage of this legislation, so badly needed to improve opportunities for our children, is a "must" and ask for his aggressive support in getting it done. Senator Spradling has in the past been a strong advocate of better public elementary and secondary education and has been a leader in legislation for school improvement.

According to the last U.S. decennial census the average grade completed by adults over 25 years of age in Scott County is 8.6 or 6 months above the 8th grade, for Stoddard County 8.3, for Mississippi 7.7, New Madrid 7.8, Pemiscot 7.5 and Dunklin 8.3. Taken as a group these Bootheel counties are lower in average educational level than is any other section of the state. Perhaps this is one reason why the Bootheel has been designated as an area for assistance from the Economic Opportunity Act, commonly called the "War on Poverty Program".

Unquestionably there is a direct connection between educational level and income. Where people are poorly educated, they are poorly paid and of course, the reverse is equally true. High income and good education go together.

No community or state can realize its economic potential unless it is willing to support good schools at all levels.

The chairman of the Visiting Evaluation Committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, of which we are a member, who visited and evaluated our schools last spring, made the following comment in their very lengthy report. "In view of the assessed evaluation behind every school child, the Board of Education and the administrative staff are to be commended for the educational program that is being provided to meet the needs of the students. What these men have done with the finances that have been made available is almost miraculous."

Naturally we are proud of their statement that we are spending the tax dollar effectively to get as much education as possible, but we regret that we do not have at least enough funds to place us on an equal position with the average of other schools in the nation. We could then improve a good program to perhaps even to an excellent one.

Mr. Bob Miller, Director of Elementary Education has appointed a committee of teachers and lay members to work with both school and city library officials to develop a list of recommended reading materials to give to each child at the end of the school term for summer reading. The committee would also work with both libraries in providing the books and other publications recommended. Members of the committee are:

Mrs. Nellie Wilson, Chairman; Mrs. Mildred Cooper, Vice Chairman; Mrs. Ida Fulton; Mrs. Evelyn Barnett; Mrs. Velna Crouthers; Mrs. Violetta McGee; Mrs. Audra B. Smith, Lay Member; Mrs. Anna Belle Cochran; Mrs. Zelpha Davis; Mrs. Dorothy Pennington; Mrs. Norma Forbis; Mrs. Eula Underwood; Mrs. Oberlin Nunnelee; and Mrs. Ruth Sappenfield, Lay Member.

We expect an attendance of 400 to 500 teachers at the Reading Workshop which is to be held at the Senior High School Saturday.

Some of the leading authorities on reading in the United States will be present to lead the discussions.

According to Bob Miller and our elementary principals who are making the local arrangements, the workshop is under the direction of Science Research Associates, an organization active in the development of new materials and techniques for the teaching of reading. Teachers from points as distant as Columbia and St. Louis will participate with representatives of almost all local area schools. Over 65 teachers from the elementary schools here will participate.

School will be dismissed next Thursday and Friday, March 11 and 12, in order that all faculty members may attend the annual professional meeting of the Southeast Missouri Teachers Association. This meeting, as usual, will be held at State College.

Morehouse News

The Morehouse Schools will dismiss for the Southeast Missouri Teachers Meeting which will be held at the Southeast Missouri State College on March 11th and 12th.

The Morehouse F.H.A. Home Economics Organization held their regular meeting Monday, February 15 at 7:00 P.M. The meeting was called to order by President, Linda Jackson. The business transacted consisted of the appointment of Judy Harris to succeed Toni Green as Parliamentarian. Toni asked to be relieved of her office as she was not always able to attend meetings.

Following the business meeting, the group was addressed by Rev. Glen Bohannon, Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Morehouse. Rev. Bohannon presented a film entitled, "Family Give and Take," after which he made comments on such. The group enjoyed the film very much and take this means of expressing their appreciation to Rev. Bohannon. After the program, refreshments were served.

On Friday, March 5, Ann Wilson, Ellen Painter, and Miss Flier will travel to the Lake of the Ozarks where they will stay overnight with Miss Flier's parents, and attend the State F. H. A. meeting on Saturday, March 6 in Jefferson City.

Mr. Jackson attended the New Madrid Administrator's meeting held in New Madrid on Wednesday, March 3.

The Morehouse Senior Class have selected the senior play which will be presented on April 23. The play to be presented is entitled, "Aunt Cathie's Cat" and is a mystery comedy in 3 acts. The cast is being selected at this time. Mrs. Judy Peters and Mr. John Bohannon the senior sponsors will direct the play.

The State Reorganization Commission of Missouri

DEPARTMENTAL INTEGRATION

29. Recommendation:

That the office of director of the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations be created by statute; that the director be appointed by the Governor, subject to confirmation by the Senate; and that he be vested with administrative authority, including the appointment of division heads, over the units of the department, with the exception of the Industrial Commission, the Division of Employment Security, the State Mediation Board, and the Board of Rehabilitation.

This recommendation of the 1955 Commission is repeated since its effect would improve the administrative efficiency of the department. Each of the operating divisions now answers directly to the Governor; budgeting, reporting, and purchasing are autonomous functions performed by each division; and there is an absence of departmental control over the separate divisions.

The proposed departmental director should be concerned with coordinating administrative services among the divisions. The Industrial Commission would continue in its role of hearing appeals and establishing rules.

The Division of Employment Security should probably remain autonomous because of its close relationship with the federal government. However, the departmental director should be familiar with facilities maintained by the Division of Employment Security that may be made available on occasion for departmental administrative work. The Division of Employment Security maintains data processing equipment that could be made available for limited use by the other departmental divisions. Since funds for operating the Division of Employment Security come from the federal government, any arrangement should be mutually agreeable to the director of the Division of Employment Security and the departmental director.

The departmental director should establish policies that promote efficiency, for example: combining the duties of departmental inspectors where possible. The 1955 Commission indicated some inspections for safety are not efficiently coordinated or combined within the department. It is recognized that industrial safety inspection may differ from safety inspection of mines; however, these differences may be diminished by an alert departmental director interested in the most efficient use of field inspectors' time.

30. Recommendation:

That the director of the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations be ex officio the director of the Division of Workmen's Compensation.

Work loads of the department's operating divisions--Workmen's Compensation, Industrial Inspection, and Mine Inspection--have not substantially changed since this recommendation was made by the 1955 Commission. A departmental director could apparently coordinate the common administrative services of the department and still efficiently supervise one of the operating divisions.

Assigning the departmental director as ex officio director of one of the operating divisions would permit the department to operate under a more efficient structure without creating an additional executive position.

CHAPTER IX

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH AND WELFARE

The Missouri Constitution provides that the General Assembly shall create a Department of Public Health and Welfare, but leaves to the General Assembly the determination of the organizational structure of the department and the functions to be performed by it.

The legislature in 1945 established the Department of Public Health and Welfare. A director is appointed by the Governor with senatorial consent for a term of four years to run concurrently with that of the Governor. The director, however, is subject to removal by the Governor. He is required by law "to be a citizen of the state of Missouri and of administrative ability, integrity and honor, with qualifications fitting him for successful performance of his official duties."

Three divisions within the department are provided by law: the Division of Health; the Division of Mental Diseases; and the Division of Welfare. The directors of the Divisions of Health and Welfare are appointed by the Governor with consent of the Senate.

The director of the Division of Mental Diseases is appointed by the Mental Health Commission for a term of four years. The statutes provide that the director of each division shall, "subject to the supervision of the director of the department," be the chief administrative office of his division. It is also provided by statute that the director of the department shall set forth the duties and responsibilities of all officials and employees of the department. The department director is also authorized by law to establish departmental bureaus for research and statitstics, personnel, finance and work related to the overall activities of the department. In 1956 the director established a Bureau of Safety and Fire Prevention to carry out a program of inspection of all the institutions in the department.

Despite such formal powers, each of the three divisions operates with considerable independence of the director of the department. Budgeting, purchasing, personnel, and reporting are handled separately by each division with only a minimum of control from the director of the department. Each divisional director has direct contact with the Governor on matters pertaining to his division.

MAIN DISH FOR LENT HAS A DANISH FLAIR

Add new flavor and interest to Lenten meals with a trick learned from great Danish cooks — use the wonder-working flavor of Danish Blue Cheese to give your meatless meals inimitable flair, Danish style.

If you know good cheese you probably enjoy the tangy Danish Blue, creamy white with characteristic blue veining, in salad dressing, as a spread for crackers, or with fruit or pie. But we've also discovered that talented Danish Blue can bestow appealing flavor in cooking, especially in bland-flavored dishes such as fish or eggs. It gives real distinction to the topping for a meatless casserole.

The ingredients in this colorful Supper Pie are all shelf or refrigerator staples, quick to combine and heat. The results are memorable — this casserole has a very special flavor, and the delicious difference is Danish Blue Cheese.

Lenten Supper Pie, Danish Style

- 1 package (½ pound) green noodles (or regular noodles)
- 1 can (6½ oz.) crab meat
- 1 can (9 oz.) tuna, chunk style
- 1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 1 can (10½ oz.) condensed cream of celery soup
- Basil, curry powder, minced onion, thyme
- 3 hard-cooked eggs, deviled or halved
- 4 ounces Danish Blue Cheese

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Pick over crab meat and flake. Drain tuna. Combine crab and tuna with mushrooms, soup, and seasonings to taste. Heat gently. Drain noodles, toss with oil, and arrange in a ring in a shallow round baking dish or deep pie plate, making a well in the center. Put the hot fish mixture into the well. Arrange the eggs around the edge and sprinkle all with Danish Blue Cheese. Bake briefly in a hot oven (400° F.) until cheese melts and begins to brown, or brown under the broiler. Serve in pie-shaped wedges. Makes 6 main-dish servings.

Show and Tell Dud Grenade Goes to School

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Lt. Lloyd B. Smith of the Jackson County's Sheriff's Patrol was showing a film on the safe handling of weapons to about 80 members of the Parent-Teachers Association at Benton School last night when Ernest Norcross, the principal, stepped up and whispered to him.

LeRoy Ream, who served 22 years in the Army before he became janitor, had found a hand grenade on the teacher's desk in a third-grade classroom.

Lt. Smith sent out calls for the Independence police and ordnance experts stationed at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base 20 miles across the southeast outskirts of Kansas City.

"I don't know why," Lt. Smith said, "but I put the grenade in a paper napkin and put it in the snow behind the school."

At the conclusion of the film, he told the audience about it. They thought he was joking until the police arrived and set up a guard around the school grounds.

Two Air Force sergeants arrived and removed the fuse from the grenade. It had no powder in it.

Back-tracking through a substitute teacher who was on duty in the third grade Tuesday, police found the grenade was brought to school by 8-year-old Gary Fischer for "show and tell" purposes.

Larry Fischer said his son found the grenade Sunday. Fischer said he shook some rust out of it, soaked it in water and gave it back to the boy.

"I was certain it was a dud," he said.

Today's Spanish Lesson

By William Archer

Reading time 5 min. Study time 5 Min.

Let us review our verb "keys" (A is English; B is Spanish; C is sound that produces Spanish pronunciation):

"Key" #1-A) I want to go to eat. B) Quiero ir a comer. C) key-AIR-o/ear/ah/co-MARE.

"Key" #2-A) I am going to go to eat. B) Voy a ir a comer. C) voy/ah/ear/ah/co-MARE.

"Key" #3-A) I went to eat (I ate). B) Fui a comer. C) foo-EE/ah/co/MARE.

"Key" #4-A) I can eat. B) Puedo comer. C) poo-AID-doe/co-MARE.

With these "keys" you can employ ANY and ALL Spanish verbs in their infinitive form. Also, you can add to these "keys" the following:

Present tense-A) do you; B) y usted; C) e/oo-STEAD.

Past Tense-A) did you; B) y usted; C) e/oo-STEAD.

Future Tense -A) will you; B) y usted; C) e/oo-STEAD . Notice how the meaning of 'y usted' changes with the tense change. It will follow the same changes through all tenses, i.e., 'I could go, AND YOU?' would bear the same meaning as 'I COULD GO, COULD YOU?'.

See how valuable 'y usted', 'y nosotros todos' and 'y ellos' are? They follow the verb meaning. Another example: A) I can go, can you? B) Puedo ir, y usted? C) poo-AID-o/ear, /e/oo-STEAD

Isn't this an interesting point? Practice 'y usted', 'y nosotros todos' and 'y ellos' with the verbs you already know and you will see that you can say: I can dance, can you? (y usted?), I am going to eat, are we all? (y nosotros todos?), I want to swim, do they? (y ellos?)

Thus, you can ask questions in the present, past and future with all verbs. Aren't these "keys" keen?

Steal $35,000 Worth of Furs and Jewels

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Burglars invaded a plush apartment in the Country Club Plaza Tuesday night and Mrs. Victor E. Schutte, prominent business woman and civic leader, told police her loss in furs and jewels probably will exceed $35,000.

They disappeared between the time she left the Regency House at 6:30 and returned at 9:45. Listed as missing were a mink coat, three mink jackets, a mink cape, a diamond bracelet valued at $6,000 and a diamond studded aquamarine set — earrings, bracelet and necklace — valued at $15,000.

Thieves stole jewelry valued at $21,500 from another apartment at the Regency House in December. In 1956, when Mrs. Schutte was living in another apartment, burglars stole $5,000 worth of furs and jewelry.

Mrs. Schutte is head of the Schutte Lumber Co. and a director of the Southeast State Bank. Her husband died in 1951. His father founded the lumber firm in 187-.

Senate Expense Account Lists $2,660.00

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many odd, unrelated and fascinating facts about the Senate came to light Wednesday with the publication of a six-month report by its secretary, Felton M. Johnson.

For example:

The Senate spent $2.66 million on "miscellaneous" items, which is more than the $2,471,000 the members and the vice president draw in pay.

It costs $58,370 to transport members from Washington to their homes twice a session.

Last July the Senate bought 72 whiskbrooms for $38.88 and spent $11.88 having its service knives sharpened and $25.85 repairing its sewing machine. Unaccountably, it also invested $27.90 in alpaca coats and $449.05 in 25 blankets in that steaming month.

The Senate library, playing it safe after the July Republican national convention, bought two copies each of two books about Barry Goldwater. The total outlay was $3.50.

Last July was a busy month and the senators used up $46,722 in long-distance telephoning while paying out $33,538 for local phone service. The bill for official telegrams, rendered in August, ran to $62,953.

July and August often found the senators and their staffs thirsty. The Senate was billed $479 for bottled water in July and $688 in August.

Going social, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee put on a series of luncheons for visiting dignitaries. The layout for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany ran $339.78. But the committee got by with $3.60 in party snacks when it entertained Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto of Pakistan.

Senators get $2,400 a year in stationery allowance. What they don't use they can keep. But the Internal Revenue Service has decreed they must pay income taxes on the residue.

In the period covered by Johnson's report, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., apparently was low on stationery and used up $2,206.45 of his allowance. Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, seemed to have been well stocked. He drew only $5.82 worth.

Friday Opening Of Dunn Coffee Shop

The Dunn Coffee Shop will again be open to the public, when Mrs. Mary V. Schillig, 734 N. Taylor, will have her opening early Friday morning. She is a native of Sikeston, and for the past 12 years owned and operated the Half-way Cafe, north of Sikeston.
The coffee shop has been rearranged and all new kitchen equipment added, and will feature hickory cured ham breakfasts, steak and chicken dinners and plate lunches. She will also take charge of the Gourmet Room, where she expects to give expert catering service to public gatherings.
Assisting her in the dining room will be Mrs. Mary Parker, while the kitchen will be in charge of Mrs. Lorane Turner, Trecie Vanover, Mrs. Clarence Morris and Mr. Pearl James.
Mrs. Schillig is the widow of the late Sid Schillig. A granddaughter, Teresa Hamelman, makes her home with her.

Bertrand News

Lou Childress taught the primary teacher I can just see Frank Childress was a meanie-he'd untie Aunt Nettie Childress apron she could make best corn cake & lasses for breakfast.
Mr. Jim Childress said my day went around country side saying its a big, fat, black curly head girl baby. I guess! Doc Rowe was doctor. I was born in a 2 room house up on North Road going 2 Charleston. Not far from Mink Williams place.
Me, my Mom & Pop, Fannie, Reuben Bush & Mark Hall hired hand all lived in a 2 room shack my mom went 2 milk one nite came hack said Joe big black bear up the road Joe grabs his gun goes up the road. It was a big black stump. First bear I ever saw a man brot a bear 2 the Gray School house for us 2 see. Medicine shows would come 2 Bertrand in those days.
I regret the passing of Mrs. Charlie Blanton, Sr. Ollie White Sikeston & Rev. Albert Cooper, & Doctor Cornwall Charleston, now Maude Marsh broke hip--after breaking leg years ago, so did Dolp Marsh. I went with Albert Marsh, Noah Strickland's horse kicked Albert Marsh & killed him Frank Marsh is thinking of staying out here while his sister Maude is in Sikeston hospital. I see friend Betty Lou Wagner of near Diehlstadt has been dismissed from Sikeston hospital after blood poisoning.
Cholly forgot 2 put in 4 or five banks of Sikeston in Saturday's addition. My George has been 2 see me went 2 see Eulre Bush Mrs. Bowman & Marshall Craig Sikeston. I see Edyth Bush is visiting her cousin Eula Bush in the Fletcher appartments.
Sikeston visitors out here the Le Grand family-Mr. & Mrs. Sam Wilcox, Gray Ladies Warren Women Bertha Collier.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
March 4, 1915

What came near being a second Titanic disaster was narrowly averted by rare presence of mind, on the second ditch near the Stallcup farm, south of Sikeston one day last week. The ditch had been widened and deepened to let the land drain better and where the incident occurred was a depth of about 15 feet. Lynn Stallcup and C. E. Dover were at this point transferring a gasoline engine from an old launch to a new one when the old launch began to sink. The engine sank and the two men were thrown into the water. They reached shore and it was reported that Lynn was still holding his cigar in his mouth and it was afire when he crawled upon

The roadmaster of the Iron Mt. Railroad informs us that the laying of heavy rails on their line will commence at once. Tools and supplies have been ordered and two extra crews will have charge of the work. Work will start at Charleston and rails will be laid to Morehouse at the earliest possible moment.

Construction work on the Rex Theatre on Center Street will be completed by today, according to W. L. Hughes, contractor for the remodeling project.

An ice cream manufacturing machine, the only one of its kind in Sikeston, was installed Thursday in the Malone Drug Store. An ice cream mixture, prepared at the Pet Milk plant at Neosho, Mo., consisting of exceptionally fine ingredients which conform to strict government regulations, is sent here in 10-gallon thermos jugs. The mixture is then poured into one-and-a-half gallon metal containers, in which it is properly flavored and stirred and either placed in a three-gallon freezer or stored in a compartment of the machine. While the ice cream is being frozen seven minutes it is also mixed, but before it is entirely hard it is allowed to run out into different size paper containers or large cans.

Unless they work on the city streets in payment for fines, jail inmates will be fed only bread and water, members of the newly formed police commission decided at their first meeting, held Friday evening in Robert Dempster's office. Heretofore the prisoners have been given ordinary meals.

Mrs. E. M. Crooks has moved from the farm where she resided many years to a cottage on the John G. Russell farm north of Sikeston.

Mr. and Mrs. Drury Wake, residents here the past several years, have gone to Fairfax, Mo., where the former will await his call for army service. During their residence here, Mr. Wake operated a drag-line near Morehouse.

Mrs. Steve Humphrey is recovering satisfactorily from the effects of injuries received in a fall while leaving the Methodist church several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fritzius and four sons are new residents of Sikeston, having moved here recently from Blytheville, Ark.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, March 4, the 63rd day of 1965. There are 302 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1789, the first federal Congress under the present Constitution met in New York.

On this date

In 1861, William Penn received from King Charles II a charter for lands which became the State of Pennsylvania.

In 1791, the State of Vermont was admitted to the Union.

In 1793, George Washington was inaugurated president for his second term.

In 1837 Chicago was chartered a city.

In 1861, the flag of the Confederate states, the Stars and Bars, was adopted by their convention in Montgomery, Ala.

Ten years ago — Moscow cleared American writer Anna Louise Strong of espionage charges.

Five years ago — Indonesian President Sukarno prepared to introduce government by decree following his suspension of Parliament.

One year ago—Teamsters Union President James Hoffa was found guilty in Chattanooga, Tennessee, of tampering with a federal jury considering charges of accepting illegal payments from an employer.

Bertrand News

Time 2 write Hill Billy news I remember when a small child --it took all day 2 go 2 Charleston -- Sikeston & back. Sometimes we walked & rode--in a new spring wagon. My Pop bought the first team of mules around here. Walter Lee of Charleston, Mo. went 2 Europe -brot over a hole boat-load of mules. In those days Sikeston, Mo. had about 400 inhabitants

Ned Sikes came into town on a black horse, named it Sikeston. The court house was in Sikeston way back when- one bank, small white brick structure. Old man Matthews established that bank-cause he owned land in Scott County.

Went to Sikeston 2 pay our taxes. My Pop hitched up his 2 red mules green spring wagon--spring seat. He & my Mom sat on front seat. They put straw in bottom of wagon & quilt for brother Reuben Bush--Sister Fannie & me--hitch the team at a lumber yard--for 25 cts a day. Glass of beer 5 cts. We ate crackers & cheese for lunch & shopped--at Need Sikes Store.

In those days we rode in covered wagon 2 Silom Springs Creel Springs Illinois. The team of mules swam the Missippi River. Ice would form on Miss. River. We would walk across.

Subject of Church School lesson Sun-was -- Key 2 The Kingdon by Paul Decker.

In Sikeston Sat. edition spoke of archeoligists we are decended from cave men--bones found from 300 2 20,000 years ago. We lived a nomads life hunted & fished shot wild turkeys ducks and geese doves. Gathered Pawpas, persimmons wild grapes huckel berries chickepins, mulberries made ink out of mulberrys wrote with a quill pin out Turkeys.

Trimmed hats with Rooster feathers-perfume out of roses stuffed pillows with rose petals scated on ponds of ice. Rode saplins, grape vines, We rode pigs & billy goats played in the sand made mud pies; tacked carpet rags. Picked geese for feather beds carried in wood. Made fires all winter.

Got a doll & doll bed for Christmas they said if I didn't learn 2 milk theyed tie me 2 old cows tail-- So Florencie learned 2 milk--milked help my mom milk six cows pump water for mules & horses walked 3 miles 2 school at Little Red school house. Anna Bloomeyer sent me picture of Little Red school house 3 miles back.

Sometimes Uncle Bill Coolier would carry me in basket--Bill Childress carried me 2. Russell School - Wallace Fisher our neighbor was principal of Russell School near Charleston, Mo.

THE FOUR INCH plus snow today brought out many scenes like this one early today, and by 8:30 the downtown streets and parking lots were cleared of the white flakes. The snowfall began Wednesday at 4 p.m. and continued until noon today, bringing the total in this area to five inches. Above is Don Culbertson clearing the last portion of snow from a parking lot. (Standard Photo)

SLICK STREETS brought the first street accident shortly after 8a.m. today as the Daily Standard truck, driven by Herschel Capshaw was unable to make a complete stop at the corner of Franklin and North streets, and slid into a late model Pontiac, driven by Leona Boyer, 901 Sikes Street. The Pontiac received a broken left headlight and bent fender, while the truck received a dented fender. (Standard Photo)

New Bills Introduced

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Because of the snowy weather the House and Senate met for only a few minutes today to introduce new bills, then quit so members could start their slow treks home for the weekend.

The Senate got a bill to refund one-half cent of the state's three-cent sales taxes to cities and towns, prorated on a population basis. Based on current collections the amount would be $34.6 million a year.

Another new bill would allow legislators over 60 to retire after six years service.

Among the 10 House bills offered were ones to:

Require state licensing of life and health insurance agents.

Permit liquor by the drink licenses in unincorporated areas of Jackson, Platte, Clay and Buchanan counties.

Appropriate $150,000 to clean the mud out of the lake in Big Lake State Park in Holt County.

Require two license plates with luminous figures for automobiles.

Provide special license plates for disabled persons.

Require that the director of the Division of Industrial Inspection be a professional engineer and at least 30 years old.

Let St. Joseph levy a property tax of not more than three mills for firemen's pensions.

Permit state colleges to provide retirement and disability plans for their staffs.

Among the 21 new Senate bills were ones to:

Regulate pre - purchase funeral arrangements. There is no law on the subject now.

Raise the pay of the state purchasing agent from $8,500 to $14,500.

Arrest Suspect In Carol Sussex Murder

ST. LOUIS (AP) -- A team of detectives, who had been working virtually around the clock for eight days early today arrested a man for the killing Feb. 23 of pretty blonde divorcee Carol Jean Sussex.

Det. Capt. F. J. Pete Vasel said James Dale Edwards, 24, of suburban Hazelwood, signed a statement admitting that he strangled the 27-year-old secretary for no apparent reason.

Edwards was held without bond and booked for first degree murder.

Miss Sussex was found strangled in her apartment the morning of Feb. 23 after fellow employes grew concerned when she didn't show up for work.

A lamp cord was twisted around her neck.

Capt. Vasel said Edwards told this story:

He met Miss Sussex in a North St. Louis County bar and they had several drinks together.

They went to another place, had dinner and later went to the young woman's apartment.

Upon entering, Edwards, on impulse, seized Miss Sussex and strangled her.

Edwards is married but separated. Capt. Vasel said the only reason he gave for the killing was "I guess I wanted my wife to feel sorry for me."

Vasel said he and detectives Bob Crews, Richard Koenig and Fred Mulitch learned that her favorite food was Lasagna, an Italian dish.

The detectives began a check of bars and restaurants and found the place where the young woman had been the night prior to her slaying.

The officers found that she had been with a man and obtained a description of him.

From there they further traced her movements to the bar where Miss Sussex had met the man with whom she ate dinner.

Edwards was picked up the day after Miss Sussex' body was found and held for a time as a material witness but was released on insufficient evidence.

Captain Vasel said he and the other detectives located some witnesses who described Edwards as the man with Miss Sussex the night before she was slain.

Arrested again this morning, Edwards admitted strangling the woman.

Ross Barnett

Ross Barnett To Speak for B.&P.W. Club

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Sikeston will have its seventh annual Woman of the Year night, Thursday, March 18, in the American Legion Hall beginning at 7 p.m. and it is expected there will be a large attendance.

Ross Barnett, of Jackson, former governor of Mississippi has accepted an invitation to speak and will be here.

During Gov. Barnett's four years as chief executive of his state 556 new and expanded industries were secured; income tax rates were reduced from 6 to 3 percent.

A powerful and interesting speaker, Gov. Barnett should prove to be an unusually fine speaker for the women's annual event.

Tickets to the affair may be secured from any member of the B. & P. W.

The selection of a "Woman of the Year" this year may prove to be more difficult than usual in view of the fact more organizations have taken an interest in the selection and are offering candidates for the honor.

Oran City Council Votes For Daylight Savings

ORAN -- All eight members of the Oran City Council voted in favor of adopting daylight savings time at a meeting Tuesday night.

Today, employes of the International Hat Co., Oran's biggest single employer, also unanimously favored the measure in a poll taken at the company's plant.

Oran's mayor, Dr. I. C. Mattingly, said the council feels daylight time would give citizens more time for leisure, promote recreational activities, especially among young people, and attract industry to southeast Missouri.

Although Oran citizens have followed daylight time in past years by mutual agreement among the town's businessmen, it has never been officially adopted, Dr. Mattingly said.

First step in implementing the council's decision will be to send a recommendation to the Missouri Legislature urging the adoption of daylight time for the whole state. Sen. Albert M. Spradling Jr. of Cape Girardeau told Dr. Mattingly he favors daylight time and will recommend it to the Legislature, the mayor reported.

In the event that the Legislature does not act on the measure, Dr. Mattingly said Oran's council will probably make it a municipal law.

Cairo Insurance Agent is Robbed, Beaten near Wyatt

CHARLESTON, Mo. -- (Special)--A Cairo insurance agent told Mississippi County authorities he was robbed Tuesday night of his day's collection, reportedly amounting to several hundred.

Bob Henshaw, agent for the Commonwealth Life and Accident Insurance Co., of Cairo, said the robbery occurred about 3 miles southwest of Wyatt on a rural road.

He described his assailants as three or four Negro men who were driving an old model black Ford car. They apparently had stopped on the road and flagged Henshaw, supposedly to ask for assistance.

The robbery was reported to have occurred about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

15 Killed In Explosion

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP)- A high-pressure natural gas pipeline exploded in a residential area north of here early today and officials said at least 15 and possibly more persons were killed.

Norman Fletcher, Natchitoches Parish Civil Defense director, said nine of the 15 known dead were children. Two or three persons unaccounted for also are children, he said.

At least nine persons were taken to a hospital for treatment of injuries. Their conditions were not serious.

The blast occurred on Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. 32-inch line shortly after 6 a.m.

The blast and billowing flames destroyed five frame homes across State Highway 1 from the country club. Eight automobiles were melted by the intense heat.

Flames leaped upward of 400 to 500 feet in the cloudless sky and seared an area about 200 yards square in the vicinity of the five houses. A crater 200 yards wide was created.

The flames kept back rescue workers until Tennessee Gas crews managed to shut off the flow of gas.

Bodies of the victims were taken to the National Guard Armory, where Dr. Charles Cook, the parish coroner, began the task of identification.

Rescue crews searched the rubble as the flames died out in a hunt for more bodies.

Natchitoches is in northwest Louisiana about 100 miles southeast of Shreveport.

Mitchell is Candidate For Maharajah

The Lions Club wants to elect a Maharajah to take part in the forthcoming Follies to be presented under the sponsorship of the Junior Woman's Club, and by unanimous acclamation, Charlie Mitchell was designated as the honoree at the club's Wednesday noon meeting. Henry Bussey was equally enthusiastically nominated to be campaign manager.

The Maharajah campaign was explained to the club by Mrs. Bob Dyer who, with Miss Linda Freeman, manager of the Maharajah project for the women's organization.

A picture of the "Maharajah" in his regal robes is to be taken and placed in each of the banks with an appeal for votes. Votes are a penny apiece and there is no maximum limit on how many votes one can cast.

Every male service club in town is to be asked to nominate and campaign for a Maharajah so as time for the Follies draws closer there could be some hectic races to say nothing of a slight strain on the family budget.

There was no program at the meeting which was for business matters only.

Clem Beal, club president, announced the club had been asked to nominate a candidate for the annual Man of the Year award to be made at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on April 1 and he appointed Charles L. Blanton III and Bernard Rice as a committee to nominate a candidate.

The club also voted to continue meeting at the Rock for the next quarter.

MADISON, Wis. AP -- William S. Fields filed his aldermanic election campaign expense report with the city clerk's office Tuesday. He said his lone contribution was 29 cents from his wife, Donna. Fields said it went for writing paper.

New Bills Introduced

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Because of the snowy weather the House and Senate met for only a few minutes today to introduce new bills, then quit so members could start their slow treks home for the weekend.

The Senate got a bill to refund one-half cent of the state's three-cent sales taxes to cities and towns, prorated on a population basis. Based on current collections the amount would be $34.6 million a year.

Another new bill would allow legislators over 60 to retire after six years service.

Among the 10 House bills offered were ones to:

Require state licensing of life and health insurance agents.

Permit liquor by the drink licenses in unincorporated areas of Jackson, Platte, Clay and Buchanan counties.

Appropriate $150,000 to clean the mud out of the lake in Big Lake State Park in Holt County.

Require two license plates with luminous figures for automobiles.

Provide special license plates for disabled persons.

Require that the director of the Division of Industrial Inspection be a professional engineer and at least 30 years old.

Let St. Joseph levy a property tax of not more than three mills for firemen's pensions.

Permit state colleges to provide retirement and disability plans for their staffs.

Among the 21 new Senate bills were ones to:

Regulate pre - purchase funeral arrangements. There is no law on the subject now.

Raise the pay of the state purchasing agent from $8,500 to $14,500.

Allow insurance companies to deviate from standard rates and charge higher premiums on high risk policies.

Let third and fourth class counties close county offices, except the sheriff's, on Saturday afternoon.

Establish a state director of safety and fire prevention with broad inspection powers.

Cairo Insurance Agent is Robbed, Beaten near Wyatt

CHARLESTON, Mo. -- (Special)--A Cairo insurance agent told Mississippi County authorities he was robbed Tuesday night of his day's collection, reportedly amounting to several hundred.

Bob Henshaw, agent for the Commonwealth Life and Accident Insurance Co., of Cairo, said the robbery occurred about 3 miles southwest of Wyatt on a rural road.

He described his assailants as three or four Negro men who were driving an old model black Ford car. They apparently had stopped on the road and flagged Henshaw, supposedly to ask for assistance.

The robbery was reported to have occurred about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

15 Killed In Explosion

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP)- A high-pressure natural gas pipeline exploded in a residential area north of here early today and officials said at least 15 and possibly more persons were killed.

Norman Fletcher, Natchitoches Parish Civil Defense director, said nine of the 15 known dead were children. Two or three persons unaccounted for also are children, he said.

At least nine persons were taken to a hospital for treatment of injuries. Their conditions were not serious.

The blast occurred on Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. 32-inch line shortly after 6 a.m.

The blast and billowing flames destroyed five frame homes across State Highway 1 from the country club. Eight automobiles were melted by the intense heat.

Flames leaped upward of 400 to 500 feet in the cloudless sky and seared an area about 200 yards square in the vicinity of the five houses. A crater 200 yards wide was created.

The flames kept back rescue workers until Tennessee Gas crews managed to shut off the flow of gas.

Bodies of the victims were taken to the National Guard Armory, where Dr. Charles Cook, the parish coroner, began the task of identification.

Rescue crews searched the rubble as the flames died out in a hunt for more bodies.

Natchitoches is in northwest Louisiana about 100 miles southeast of Shreveport.

Mitchell is Candidate For Maharajah

The Lions Club wants to elect a Maharajah to take part in the forthcoming Follies to be presented under the sponsorship of the Junior Woman's Club, and by unanimous acclamation, Charlie Mitchell was designated as the honoree at the club's Wednesday noon meeting. Henry Bussey was equally enthusiastically nominated to be campaign manager.

The Maharajah campaign was explained to the club by Mrs. Bob Dyer who, with Miss Linda Freeman, manager of the Maharajah project for the women's organization.

A picture of the "Maharajah" in his regal robes is to be taken and placed in each of the banks with an appeal for votes. Votes are a penny apiece and there is no maximum limit on how many votes one can cast.

Every male service club in town is to be asked to nominate and campaign for a Maharajah so as time for the Follies draws closer there could be some hectic races to say nothing of a slight strain on the family budget.

There was no program at the meeting which was for business matters only.

Clem Beal, club president, announced the club had been asked to nominate a candidate for the annual Man of the Year award to be made at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on April 1 and he appointed Charles L. Blanton III and Bernard Rice as a committee to nominate a candidate.

The club also voted to continue meeting at the Rock for the next quarter.

MADISON, Wis. AP -- William S. Fields filed his aldermanic election campaign expense report with the city clerk's office Tuesday. He said his lone contribution was 29 cents from his wife, Donna. Fields said it went for writing paper.

LINCOLN'S NOBLEST WORDS

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S second inaugural address, delivered just 100 years ago, on March 4, 1865, for loftiness of language ranks among the great speeches of all time, and certainly among Lincoln's greatest utterances. It was a majestic restatement of national unity. Friendly toward the enemy, Lincoln refused to blame the South for the war, and counseled his countrymen to "judge not, that we be not judged."

"Both read the same Bible and pray to the same God," Lincoln told the people massed about the east portico of the Capitol, "and each invokes His aid against the other." It was magnainimity of a leader confident of victory -- Lee surrendered on April 9, barely a month later -- but it was also the magnainimity of one who had steadfastly worked to avoid the conflict. Lincoln's first inaugural address had been a moving plea for tolerance and understanding to avert war between North and South.

"THE OFFICE of an inaugural address," President Taft was to postulate in opening his own 44 years later, "is to give a summary outline of the main policies of the new administration, so far as they can be anticipated." In his brief address Lincoln made no attempt to be concrete about the future, nor did he review the events of his first four years in office.

The Second Inaugural begins in almost pedestrian fashion. The first sentence is a flat statement of fact: "Fellow - Countrymen: At this second appearing to take the oath of the Presidential office there is less occasion for an extended address than there was at the first." Only two sentences later he begins to speak of the "great contest" which clearly absorbs his mind and soul. With Biblical diction Lincoln proceeds until he arrives at his scriptural text: "Woe unto the World because of offenses; for it must needs be that offenses come, but woe to that man by whom the offense cometh."

Lincoln pledges if need be to continue the war "until all the wealth piled by the bondsman's two hundred and fifty years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid with another drawn with the sword." And then comes the sublime peroration:

With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations.

LORD CURZON, chancellor of Oxford, once listed the Second Inaugural and the Gettysburg Address as among the three masterpieces of English eloquence -- "the glories and treasures of mankind." Of the Lincoln eloquence Curzon said: "It sets one to inquiring, with nothing short of wonder, 'How knoweth this man letters, having never learned?'"

David C. Mearns, head of the Library of Congress manuscripts division and a lifelong Lincoln scholar, while admitting to a personal preference for Lincoln's Farewell to Springfield speech, appraises the Inaugural as "the finest expression Lincoln ever gave to his peace aims." On April 11, 1865, virtually the eve of his martyrdom, Lincoln in his last speech returned to the theme of reconstruction. With consistent generosity he said: "Concede that the new government of Louisiana is . . . as the egg is the fowl, we shall sooner have the fowl by hatching the egg than smashing it."

Three nights later this man without malice was silenced by malice most foul.

SPEAKING OF LABELS. . . .

Many well - known writers, professors and commentators would have us believe there are no Communists in America to speak of and no Socialists worth bothering about. There are only "liberals," as opposed to "conservatives."

But what makes a Socialist? Norman Thomas, a sincere and honest Socialist, says: "The advocacy of public power does not of itself make a Socialist . . . But, of course, the principle behind public development of power is socialist, and it is rather childish to deny it."

Yet, a great many people do deny it. Likewise, they would deny it is socialistic for government to fix wages and prices, or to place controls over business profits. But it is just as childish to deny that these are socialistic as to deny public power is socialistic, and Mr. Thomas, who ought to know, makes that much clear.

Socialism generally has failed to work. That is one reason "liberals" deny that any of their programs are socialistic. Another reason is that Americans do not like socialism, although they can be misled as to what is and what is not socialism.

Government currently is delving into the labeling of consumer products. It ought to be equally concerned about labeling of legislative programs; it ought to call them socialistic when they are -- and see whether the American people will go for them when they are correctly labeled.

LIKE THE PLAGUE

Power produced in a government - owned, or socialized, electric system does precisely the same jobs in precisely the same way as power produced in an investor - owned, private enterprise system. It makes the lights burn, turns the motors, powers the appliances, and so on down the long list of electricity's vast capabilities.

But there the resemblance ends. For government power does not pay a return equal to the value of the capital it takes from the people through taxation. And government power's tax payments are but a small fraction of those paid by investor - owned utilities -- slightly more than three per cent of revenues as against about 24 per cent.

How important are these two items? A spokesman for the Edison Electric Institute has answered that question with statistics of record. Power production requires $4.50 for each dollar of annual revenue. At a minimum figure, capital is worth 5 per cent of that investment. Taxes take another 5 per cent of the investment, for a total of 10 per cent. And 10 per cent of $4.50 is 45 cents -- just about half of the revenue.

According to the Institute spokesman, when adjustment is made for the two items, capital cost and taxes, government power is no lower in price than in private -- and, in most cases, it is higher.

These are facts that socialized power advocates avoid like the plague -- and facts that seem to have much less public recognition than they deserve. They show why those advocates throw up their hands in horror when the eminently fair and reasonable proposal is made that government systems pay the same taxes and capital costs that are borne by the investor - owned utilities.

In one chapter of A Surfeit of Honey (Harper), Russell Lynes tries to dope out what young women want their prospective husbands to be. He must be what the girls call 'well-rounded.'

Continuing, though unbelieving, Lynes says the girls' ideal is 'affable, friendly, and trustworthy, and he tries to be all things to all people. He gets on easily with everybody, everybody, that is, who is also well-rounded and even with a few who are not. He is conservative in his tastes for furniture, foods, entertainments, and women. . .'

The specifications continue for another two hundred words. Lynes concludes: "The well-rounded man. . .is not an individual; he is just a generality. He is a statistical meatball, the lean and the fat all ground together.'

The nation's independent business enterprises during 1964 did cut a swath in the ranks of the unemployed. This was accomplished by expanding to provide more jobs. And despite the fact that there has been widespread belief that the 1964 income tax cut was a powerful impetus, the majority of the independent businessmen do not report any beneficial affect from this move.

This is contained in the first preliminary compilation of the 1965 field survey being conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business, which encompasses only the first week's returns, totalling 1,569 respondents in 31 states.

Of this total, 34.6 % report they expanded operations last year, providing 1,268 new jobs, or an average of 2.33 new jobs per expanding enterprise.

Projected over the nation's 4,500,000 independent business enterprises, the results of this first sample would indicate that 1,557,000 such businesses expanded, developing 3,627,810 new jobs.

During the 12 months of 1964 in a special field survey the Federation asked independent businessmen their intentions of expanding. The year end compilation based on slightly more than 68,000 respondents, indicated that only 23.9 planned expansion, but in doing so providing 4.7 new jobs per expanding firm. This projected over the entire 4,500,000 businesses gave a potential new job development of 5,524,850.

Thus, while so far the figures indicate more firms expanded than was planned, the new jobs created fall below the estimates given by the respondents last year.

The Federation research people, when more surveys are completed, will make further studies in this area. At the present time on the basis of survey responses, it appears that a possible major block to further expansion is lack of access to capital, and particularly long term capital.

As the results stand so far, the expanding respondents report a cumulative investment of $9,841,250, or an average of $16,312.26 per firm.

In 12 states where there are so-called "right to work laws" permitted by Section 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act, so far there appears to be greater confidence by independent business, as in those states 37% were found to have expanded last year, compared to a national average of 34.6%.

Reversing what has been a generally held opinion, only 35.8% of the respondents to date feel that the 1964 income tax reduction furnished any impetus to expansion.

On the other hand, the independent business proprietors give credit to other tax reforms for encouraging expansion. The 20% first year depreciation measure that was passed in 1958, the 17% depreciation speed up, and the 7% investment credit all register from 6% to 9% higher than the income tax cut as measures that encouraged expansion and more employment.

This same attitude appears to be reflected in the opinions registered so far on what further tax revision will encourage expansion and more jobs.

On the long debated "plowback allowance" favored by the Senate Small Business Committee, which would permit a business to invest back in the business tax-free 20% of a year's profits up to a maximum of $30,000. 82.2% are in favor, while 62.1% are in favor of increased tax deductions for their own retirement programs, and 34.8% have so far voted for cuts in excise taxes. The long debated proposal in Washington to revise the tax structure to eliminate allowances and deductions and have a lower tax rate is only looked upon with favor by 16% of the respondents so far.

The support for the "plowback allowance" is substantially higher than that registered for either further government action in the field of pricing, or control of misleading advertising.

Commenting on the results of the 1965 field survey to date, C. Wilson Harder, president of the National Federation of Independent Business, said that the sample, although about equivalent in size to that used by many research organizations, is too small to draw definite conclusions.

Even when this sample reaches our usual total of around 70,000 respondents, it is to be expected that several things will remain unchanged.

One thing, will be further proof furnished that given half a chance, small and independent business can and will solve the unemployment problem.

Our lawmakers must realize that vital as our big industrial complexes are to the nation, with automation they are becoming less and less of a factor in the employment picture. Government economists who are big industry oriented and who feel that it requires $20,000 to $30,000 investment to provide a new job should study the findings of our 1965 survey. Results so far show that in 1964 independent business investment in new jobs was only $6,972 per new job created. Obviously, if the Congress should finally take action on the long delayed "plowback allowance" independent business expansion and jobs will go forward at a greatly accelerated pace.

As soon as the survey has been underway for a few more weeks, and there has been time to have representations from all the states, complete computerized data will be issued on all the 21 sections of the survey, broken down state by state.

By the end of the first quarter, the Federation will have the only complete data on what is happening in the area of independent business.

THE ISSUE LIVES ON

The furor over the use of pesticides and other chemicals in agriculture -- which was spurred to white heat by the appearance of a book whose excellence of presentation obscured its many extremely controversial conclusions -- has abated. But that does not mean it is a dead issue. Far from it --- this is one of those issues and problems which is destined to live on and which suffers from a lack of the general understanding that is needed.

Two points which are generally agreed upon in informed circles are paramount.

First of all, the amazing productivity of American agriculture -- which is not only responsible for our abundance of food, but for keeping prices within reach of the American family -- is in large measure dependent on chemicals, including those which kill insects, fungus, disease, and other natural enemies. This dependence will increase, and we will have to supply a growing population from a fixed farm acreage. Some have gone so far as to say that actual famine would be a future possibility without the pesticides.

Second, the danger to humans and wildlife that some chemicals may contain are not builtin and inescapable. The fault lies in their improper use. The manufacturers provide necessary instructions and warnings -- it is up to the applier to follow them. Here there can be no question of the need for continuous education, alertness and constructive action.

We do not urge excessively restricting the use of automobiles, household cleaners, guns or innumerable other commodities because in the hands of the careless or the ignorant they are dangerous. The same sound principle should apply to agricultural chemicals.

AIR FORCE BREADLINE NOT EASILY BROKEN OFF

Bread lines, once started, are hard to break off, Tax Foundation, Inc., noted today.

When the U. S. Air Force bakery in Peshawar, Pakistan, ran short of bakers and had trouble with a new base oven last November, bread was requisitioned from the States.

The first shipment, 4,500 pounds, was flown into Peshawar from Karachi last January 20. The bakery oven and manning troubles were corrected by March 1. But the frozen bread continued to arrive -- another 9,500 pounds by June 15.

A military spokesman explaining the arrival of three shipments after orders to cancel said the flow of dough (frozen) couldn't be halted "due to completion of procurement action stateside."

NATIONAL INDEX TO CITE COSTS OF LITTERBUG ACTS

Formation of a National Litter Index to measure the activity of litterbugs in the years ahead has been announced by Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national public service organization for the prevention of litter.

KAB said that since litter is a continuing problem, and "the potential of this menace will grow" as more cars take to the road, there is need for a "barometer" to help the thousands of litter fighters throughout America keep track of the progress being made in the face of the growing litter potential.

The Index will be based on the annual cost of removing litter from primary state highways in 50 states and the number of miles traveled in the same year by vehicles on these highways.

Since the state highway departments spent $22 million in cleaning up their highway systems in 1963 with vehicles traveling 324 billion miles, the cost comes to seven-thousands of a cent per mile, KAB explained.

The 1963 figure will become the starting base figure --- '100' on the Index. Each future year's cleanup cost will be measured to show whether the "litterbugs are in retreat" or that they are strewing more litter than before.

THINKING FREEDOM THROUGH

It is not sufficient just to be for freedom. We must know why we are for it.

Freedom may, and should, inspire our souls. But if we do not use our heads we will never keep it.

Freedom is not good simply because we are used to it or happen to like it. It is not good just because our Founding Fathers, great as they were, loved it. To take freedom for granted or by custom is a contradiction in terms and we will not keep it long on those terms.

Freedom is good because it makes possible a man living the kind of life proper to men. A beast of burden can do the work of a slave. A lion, a tiger or a shark can plunder and destroy. The leader of a band of baboons can rule by force.

But man has a reasoning mind and a constructive will. He can use that mind and will to build a better life for himself and everyone around him. So long as there is freedom, those men who do use their minds and will in this way will succeed.

But when freedom is destroyed, men are crushed and reduced to hopeless, endless labor or savage marauding.

Freedom gives every man a chance, and the most competent and diligent the best opportunity to succeed. Centralized power gives nobody a change except those who are a part of the ruling machinery, and they soon become potential dictators.

Freedom and force are enemies; they cannot coexist.

"Don't Get Us Wrong, Officer, We're Putting Money IN"

ROSS LEWIS, MILWAUKEE JOURNAL

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK AP -- "As with most women, I am not at my best in the morning," said Gina Lollobrigida.

"The day should start at noon. If I am going to have a fight with someone, I have it in the morning. If I have a pleasant romantic rendezvous, I like it in the afternoon or evening."

These opening remarks as we sat down to luncheon left me somewhat in a dilema. Should I put up my dukes, or recite a love sonnet to Miss Lollobrigida?

The dark - haired Italian actress is tempestuous as well as beautiful. Critics have said many things about her many-faceted personality. She herself once remarked drily, "I am an expert on Gina."

Here, then, is Gina on Gina and on life:

"I live wherever I'm working. I fly so much home is where I am now.

"I like to have few but good friends. Enthusiasm. My son more than anything else in the world. The color red when I feel good, black when I'm moody. Gardenias, antique furniture and Etruscan vases. I'd rather spend my money on art than jewels or furs.

"I like red wine, Alastian wolf hounds -- the big animals not little ones -- summer, emeralds, reading Sartre, Chekhov, Steinbeck and Faulkner; listening to classical or jazz music, soft lights, the smell of babies, people with strong personalities, Chinese food and shish kebab.

"I don't like dishonesty, insincere people, ennui, to be late to engagements, the wind, neon lights, sleeping in airplanes and waking to find I don't have my feet on the ground, small insects.

"When I have a nightmare, I dream a bee is going into my ear. The thing I am most afraid of is flies.

"My moods are like an elevator -- always going up or down. My biggest fault is that I'm insecure most of the time. I envy people who can think straight all the time, who always know just what they want. I'm not that way.

"To me life is surprise-- and I like that. I don't like programs. It's much better to wonder about tomorrow.

"My philosophy is simple. It is this -- that tomorrow is a good day.

"Today is important, too, of course, but I never think about the past. It makes me sad. I don't regret what I did. I would make the same decisions again.

"But when we remember it is like watching a different person, because we are always changing in life.

"I don't want to live behind me.

"Who likes to look at dead flowers?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

En route through the Caribbean — carrying out President Johnson's idea of spending U.S. dollars on the beautiful scenery of the USA, I write today about one of our greatest tourist attractions, a three-hour flight from New York — the Virgin Islands.

I must confess a certain amount of personal prejudice regarding these islands, because my father, Paul M. Pearson, was their first civilian governor. He took over when they were a ragtag, down-at-the-heel, unknown set of islands which President Herbert Hoover called an "effective poorhouse." My father had persuaded Hoover to come to the islands in order to publicize them and I remember how stung he and other islanders were when Hoover held up their poverty for the world to see.

Mr. Hoover was, of course, right. We had purchased the islands from Denmark in 1917 because we feared the Kaiser would take over the wonderful natural harbor of St. Thomas as a submarine base. But having purchased the Virgins we did nothing about them for the next 15 years, and in 1931 the efficient Mr. Hoover would have liked to turn them back to the Danes — free.

Little did he realize — nor did most people — that the azure blue of the Caribbean, the quaint streets of St. Thomas, the pristine beauty of St. John, and the palm-studded beaches of St. Croix would be worth millions of tourist dollars.

The new governor, faced with the problem of bringing a modicum of prosperity to this poverty-stricken area, saw that its chief asset was its beauty. He tried some other remedies — the revival of sugar and rum — but the chief economic salvation of the Virgin Islands, he figured, was beauty.

—A GOVERNMENT HOTEL—

At that time, however, there was only one old-fashioned hotel on the islands. There was not one adequate restaurant; and the bathing beaches, though beautiful, had no accommodations for dressing. Furthermore, no airplanes went to the Virgin Islands. In 1931 there was one little mail boat which crossed from Puerto Rico twice a week and took about half a day to get there. The steamship trip from New York required about four days.

So the governor had to build the tourist traffic from the ground up.

The first thing he did was to persuade the Interior Department in Washington to permit him to organize a government company, the Virgin Islands Corporation, to start a hotel, and go into the tourist business.

This was thirty years before the Commerce Department started its present tourist office to entice tourists to the United States. In 1931-32, however, the Republican Administration of Herbert Hoover set up a government corporation which not only went into the rum and sugar businesses but bought an old castle once used by the famed pirate, Bluebeard, and turned it into the first real hotel on the islands.

Democrats in Congress yelled "socialism." However, the plan worked. Other hotels were built, these by private enterprise, and gradually tourists began going to the Virgin Islands.

The new civilian governor also started entertainment festivals, similar to those now conducted in Cape Cod, Venice, Italy, and along the Adriatic Coast of Yugoslavia.

This aroused another storm of criticism. Sen. Millard Tydings, Maryland Democrat, and Ralph Palwonsky, Democratic National Committeeman and father of the present governor, screamed "waste of the taxpayers' money," and started a Senate investigation.

—SENATE INVESTIGATES—

It was discovered, however, that the new governor had persuaded the musical talent to come to the islands without salary, had persuaded the Bull Line to contribute free passage, and had borrowed the costumes from old Chautauqua warehouses.

My father also organized the Virgin Islands Cooperative among native women, to weave baskets and make mats for sale to the tourists. He persuaded the cruise ships to stop at St. Thomas, and gradually the islands began to attract people from the mainland of the United States.

Today, the first civilian governor, were he alive, would have no difficulty recognizing the beautiful bathing beaches, the quaint streets, the roads curving around the hilltops of the islands which he loved. But he would not recognize the new hotels, the glamorous restaurants, the night clubs, the throngs of tourists.

He would rub his eyes at the giant airport of St. Croix, to which Pan American operates nonstop jets from New York, cutting the travel time down from four days by steamship to three hours by air.

And he would be especially delighted with the small island of St. John. It had a population of 700 people when Father was governor, and its population is not much more than that today. This is one of its charms. In Caneel Bay you can snorkel for a mile or so watching the rainbow-colored fish, the coral, the sand made emerald green by the sunlight and the water.

The old stone sugar mills, which brought slavery and prosperity to the island more than one hundred years ago, still stand. But their windmills spin no more and the line of donkeys carrying cane up to their maws moves no more. Cane is cultivated now only on the bigger island of St. Croix, and there is another kind of prosperity on St. John.

It has now been made a national park, thanks to the generosity of Laurence Rockefeller and to the foresight of the first civilian governor, who saw that the Virgin Islands, then an effective poorhouse, could become the most attractive American playground in the Caribbean.

It's one of the places where, as President Johnson suggests, American citizens can spend American dollars without upsetting the balance of payments abroad.

Inside Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

Walter Reuther, Recovered From Lung Surgery, Now Building 'New Unionism' Everywhere

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Walter Reuther's strange bursts of silence have nothing to do with his recent lung operation.

He has fully recovered from surgery of his barrel chest. For a man who does not smoke nor drink he is in good shape and quite ready to use his lung power when the time comes.

But he awaits the moment with caution. He chose silence during the recent session of labor's high command council in Florida because he is a leader-in-waiting in the court of labor.

Reuther has not junked his dreams of unleashing wide organizing drives. Those who think so forget he still is head of the AFL-CIO's national organizing department.

Though publicly he appears to be standing still, he is quietly working behind the scenes with many dynamic young labor leaders who still are as unknown as the last names of Damon and Pythias.

Reuther can afford to wait for these men of the second and third echelon leadership to develop strength — and to build a new unionism.

He is 57. Many of those who have fought him — are his elders by more than a decade. In Florida, Reuther did not try to oust some of the old timers from labor's high command. Instead, he conjectured that the new unionism would drive them out in a year or two.

"There is a new unionism," asserted one of the men who has been his intimate for years. "Things are stirring. Walter is quietly helping them to stir in areas one would least expect to see hard-headed, well organized union drives."

To the Reuther people the new unionism consists of the surging militancy amongst the teachers, insurance company employes, federal workers, those in state, county and municipal offices, and even the new young scientists and technicians of the space age.

Typical are the Reuther-sparking unionizing campaigns to sign-up one million school teachers — not only in the big cities but in suburbia.

The big push amongst the teachers will be the pattern for the assistance in the rest of the non-blue collar and professional fields. Most of this aid comes from a virtually unknown section of the AFL-CIO known as the Industrial Union Dept. (IUD).

Reuther heads it. With a treasury totaling more than $3 million and an affiliated membership of over 5 million it can move hard and swiftly.

In recent months it has set up new teachers' unionizing units every few weeks. The newest are in Long Island, New York, upper Michigan and sections of California.

The strategy is similar to what was devised when Reuther and other IUD officials met in New York City several years back to crack the first target — the big town's 40,000 teachers.

Experienced organizers were brought in. A "very substantial sum of money" was lent to the new United Federation of Teachers. College men were hired as temporary organizers. When money ran short, the IUD signed its guarantee to bank notes for big loans.

Some of Reuther's organizers were in the city for over a year, some for a few months. Thus it has been in Philadelphia, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Boston and a string of other communities across the land.

Leader of the New York teachers, 55-year-old Charles Cogen, later shifted to the national American Federation of Teachers in Chicago. He was replaced in the city by lanky 38-year-old militant, Al Shanker, now talking of striking the huge school system on opening day next September.

None of this is hit and miss. There is a blueprint for action. The IUD matches the money raised by the teachers unions in each locality.

Then manpower is poured in. The drive on the school system is carefully planned after the sociological measurements of the community are taken.

In some fashion or other, this technique is — and will be — used in burgeoning space industries, amongst the technicians and professionals.

Merely substitute a "think factory", a federal bureau, a municipal building, an experimental installation or an insurance firm for a public school and you have the pattern.

While Reuther waits, he makes peace with many of the veterans of the powerful building and construction trades — whose unions number over 3 million members. This he did quite actively in Florida last week.

So, silence from Walter Reuther means nothing. One can be on the march without awakening echoing thunder across the land.

LINCOLN'S NOBLEST WORDS

ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S second inaugural address, delivered just 100 years ago, on March 4, 1865, for loftiness of language ranks among the great speeches of all time, and certainly among Lincoln's greatest utterances. It was a majestic restatement of national unity. Friendly toward the enemy, Lincoln refused to blame the South for the war, and counseled his countrymen to "judge not, that we be not judged."

"Both read the same Bible and pray to the same God," Lincoln told the people massed about the east portico of the Capitol, "and each invokes His aid against the other." It was magnainimity of a leader confident of victory -- Lee surrendered on April 9, barely a month later -- but it was also the magnainimity of one who had steadfastly worked to avoid the conflict. Lincoln's first inaugural address had been a moving plea for tolerance and understanding to avert war between North and South.

"THE OFFICE of an inaugural address," President Taft was to postulate in opening his own 44 years later, "is to give a summary outline of the main policies of the new administration, so far as they can be anticipated." In his brief address Lincoln made no attempt to be concrete about the future, nor did he review the events of his first four years in office.

The Second Inaugural begins in almost pedestrian fashion. The first sentence is a flat statement of fact: "Fellow - Countrymen: At this second appearing to take the oath of the Presidential office there is less occasion for an extended address than there was at the first." Only two sentences later he begins to speak of the "great contest" which clearly absorbs his mind and soul. With Biblical diction Lincoln proceeds until he arrives at his scriptural text: "Woe unto the World because of offenses; for it must needs be that offenses come, but woe to that man by whom the offense cometh."

Lincoln pledges if need be to continue the war "until all the wealth piled by the bondsman's two hundred and fifty years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid with another drawn with the sword." And then comes the sublime peroration:

With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations.

LORD CURZON, chancellor of Oxford, once listed the Second Inaugural and the Gettysburg Address as among the three masterpieces of English eloquence -- "the glories and treasures of mankind." Of the Lincoln eloquence Curzon said: "It sets one to inquiring, with nothing short of wonder, 'How knoweth this man letters, having never learned?' "

David C. Mearns, head of the Library of Congress manuscripts division and a lifelong Lincoln scholar, while admitting to a personal preference for Lincoln's Farewell to Springfield speech, appraises the Inaugural as "the finest expression Lincoln ever gave to his peace aims." On April 11, 1865, virtually the eve of his martyrdom, Lincoln in his last speech returned to the theme of reconstruction. With consistent generosity he said: "Concede that the new government of Louisiana is . . . as the egg is the fowl, we shall sooner have the fowl by hatching the egg than smashing it."

Three nights later this man without malice was silenced by malice most foul.

SPEAKING OF LABELS. . . .

Many well - known writers, professors and commentators would have us believe there are no Communists in America to speak of and no Socialists worth bothering about. There are only "liberals," as opposed to "conservatives."

But what makes a Socialist? Norman Thomas, a sincere and honest Socialist, says: "The advocacy of public power does not of itself make a Socialist . . . But, of course, the principle behind public development of power is socialist, and it is rather childish to deny it."

Yet, a great many people do deny it. Likewise, they would deny it is socialistic for government to fix wages and prices, or to place controls over business profits. But it is just as childish to deny that these are socialistic as to deny public power is socialistic, and Mr. Thomas, who ought to know, makes that much clear.

Socialism generally has failed to work. That is one reason "liberals" deny that any of their programs are socialistic. Another reason is that Americans do not like socialism, although they can be misled as to what is and what is not socialism.

Government currently is delving into the labeling of consumer products. It ought to be equally concerned about labeling of legislative programs; it ought to call them socialistic when they are -- and see whether the American people will go for them when they are correctly labeled.

LIKE THE PLAGUE

Power produced in a government - owned, or socialized, electric system does precisely the same jobs in precisely the same way as power produced in an investor - owned, private enterprise system. It makes the lights burn, turns the motors, powers the appliances, and so on down the long list of electricity's vast capabilities.

But there the resemblance ends. For government power does not pay a return equal to the value of the capital it takes from the people through taxation. And government power's tax payments are but a small fraction of those paid by investor - owned utilities -- slightly more than three per cent of revenues as against about 24 per cent.

How important are these two items? A spokesman for the Edison Electric Institute has answered that question with statistics of record. Power production requires $4.50 for each dollar of annual revenue. At a minimum figure, capital is worth 5 per cent of that investment. Taxes take another 5 per cent of the investment, for a total of 10 per cent. And 10 per cent of $4.50 is 45 cents -- just about half of the revenue.

According to the Institute spokesman, when adjustment is made for the two items, capital cost and taxes, government power is no lower in price than in private -- and, in most cases, it is higher.

These are facts that socialized power advocates avoid like the plague -- and facts that seem to have much less public recognition than they deserve. They show why those advocates throw up their hands in horror when the eminently fair and reasonable proposal is made that government systems pay the same taxes and capital costs that are borne by the investor - owned utilities.

In one chapter of A Surfeit of Honey (Harper), Russell Lynes tries to dope out what young women want their prospective husbands to be. He must be what the girls call 'well-rounded.'

Continuing, though unbelieving, Lynes says the girls' ideal is 'affable, friendly, and trustworthy, and he tries to be all things to all people. He gets on easily with everybody, everybody, that is, who is also well-rounded and even with a few who are not. He is conservative in his tastes for furniture, foods, entertainments, and women. . .'

The specifications continue for another two hundred words. Lynes concludes: "The well-rounded man. . .is not an individual; he is just a generality. He is a statistical meatball, the lean and the fat all ground together.'

The nation's independent business enterprises during 1964 did cut a swath in the ranks of the unemployed. This was accomplished by expanding to provide more jobs. And despite the fact that there has been widespread belief that the 1964 income tax cut was a powerful impetus, the majority of the independent businessmen do not report any beneficial affect from this move.

This is contained in the first preliminary compilation of the 1965 field survey being conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business, which encompasses only the first week's returns, totalling 1,569 respondents in 31 states.

Of this total, 34.6 % report they expanded operations last year, providing 1,268 new jobs, or an average of 2.33 new jobs per expanding enterprise.

Projected over the nation's 4,500,000 independent business enterprises, the results of this first sample would indicate that 1,557,000 such businesses expanded, developing 3,627,810 new jobs.

During the 12 months of 1964 in a special field survey the Federation asked independent businessmen their intentions of expanding. The year end compilation based on slightly more than 68,000 respondents, indicated that only 23.9 planned expansion, but in doing so providing 4.7 new jobs per expanding firm. This projected over the entire 4,500,000 businesses gave a potential new job development of 5,524,850.

Thus, while so far the figures indicate more firms expanded than was planned, the new jobs created fall below the estimates given by the respondents last year.

The Federation research people, when more surveys are completed, will make further studies in this area. At the present time on the basis of survey responses, it appears that a possible major block to further expansion is lack of access to capital, and particularly long term capital.

As the results stand so far, the expanding respondents report a cumulative investment of $9,841,250, or an average of $16,312.26 per firm.

In 12 states where there are so-called "right to work laws" permitted by Section 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act, so far there appears to be greater confidence by independent business, as in those states 37% were found to have expanded last year, compared to a national average of 34.6%.

Reversing what has been a generally held opinion, only 35.8% of the respondents to date feel that the 1964 income tax reduction furnished any impetus to expansion.

On the other hand, the independent business proprietors give credit to other tax reforms for encouraging expansion. The 20% first year depreciation measure that was passed in 1958, the 17% depreciation speed up, and the 7% investment credit all register from 6% to 9% higher than the income tax cut as measures that encouraged expansion and more employment.

This same attitude appears to be reflected in the opinions registered so far on what further tax revision will encourage expansion and more jobs.

On the long debated "plowback allowance" favored by the Senate Small Business Commitee, which would permit a business to invest back in the business tax-free 20% of a year's profits up to a maximum of $30,000. 82.2% are in favor, while 62.1% are in favor of increased tax deductions for their own retirement programs, and 34.8% have so far voted for cuts in excise taxes. The long debated proposal in Washington to revise the tax structure to eliminate allowances and deductions and have a lower tax rate is only looked upon with favor by 16% of the respondents so far.

The support for the "plowback allowance" is substantially higher than that registered for either further government action in the field of pricing, or control of misleading advertising.

Commenting on the results of the 1965 field survey to date, C. Wilson Harder, president of the National Federation of Independent Business, said that the sample, although about equivalent in size to that used by many research organizations, is too small to draw definite conclusions.

Even when this sample reaches our usual total of around 70,000 respondents, it is to be expected that several things will remain unchanged.

One thing, will be further proof furnished that given half a chance, small and independent business can and will solve the unemployment problem.

Our lawmakers must realize that vital as our big industrial complexes are to the nation, with automation they are becoming less and less of a factor in the employment picture. Government economists who are big industry oriented and who feel that it requires $20,000 to $30,000 investment to provide a new job should study the findings of our 1965 survey. Results so far show that in 1964 independent business investment in new jobs was only $6,972 per new job created. Obviously, if the Congress should finally take action on the long delayed "plowback allowance" independent business expansion and jobs will go forward at a greatly accelerated pace.

As soon as the survey has been underway for a few more weeks, and there has been time to have representations from all the states, complete computerized data will be issued on all the 21 sections of the survey, broken down state by state.

By the end of the first quarter, the Federation will have the only complete data on what is happening in the area of independent business.

THE ISSUE LIVES ON

The furor over the use of pesticides and other chemicals in agriculture -- which was spurred to white heat by the appearance of a book whose excellence of presentation obscured its many extremely controversial conclusions -- has abated. But that does not mean it is a dead issue. Far from it --- this is one of those issues and problems which is destined to live on and which suffers from a lack of the general understanding that is needed.

Two points which are generally agreed upon in informed circles are paramount.

First of all, the amazing productivity of American agriculture -- which is not only responsible for our abundance of food, but for keeping prices within reach of the American family -- is in large measure dependent on chemicals, including those which kill insects, fungus, disease, and other natural enemies. This dependence will increase, and we will have to supply a growing population from a fixed farm acreage. Some have gone so far as to say that actual famine would be a future possibility without the pesticides.

Second, the danger to humans and wildlife that some chemicals may contain are not builtin and inescapable. The fault lies in their improper use. The manufacturers provide necessary instructions and warnings -- it is up to the applier to follow them. Here there can be no question of the need for continuous education, alertness and constructive action.

We do not urge excessively restricting the use of automobiles, household cleaners, guns or innumerable other commodities because in the hands of the careless or the ignorant they are dangerous. The same sound principle should apply to agricultural chemicals.

AIR FORCE BREADLINE NOT EASILY BROKEN OFF

Bread lines, once started, are hard to break off, Tax Foundation, Inc., noted today.

When the U. S. Air Force bakery in Peshawar, Pakistan, ran short of bakers and had trouble with a new base oven last November, bread was requisitioned from the States.

The first shipment, 4,500 pounds, was flown into Peshawar from Karachi last January 20. The bakery oven and manning troubles were corrected by March 1. But the frozen bread continued to arrive -- another 9,500 pounds by June 15.

A military spokesman explaining the arrival of three shipments after orders to cancel said the flow of dough (frozen) couldn't be halted "due to completion of procurement action stateside."

NATIONAL INDEX TO CITE COSTS OF LITTERBUG ACTS

Formation of a National Litter Index to measure the activity of litterbugs in the years ahead has been announced by Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national public service organization for the prevention of litter.

KAB said that since litter is a continuing problem, and "the potential of this menace will grow" as more cars take to the road, there is need for a "barometer" to help the thousands of litter fighters throughout America keep track of the progress being made in the face of the growing litter potential.

The Index will be based on the annual cost of removing litter from primary state highways in 50 states and the number of miles traveled in the same year by vehicles on these highways.

Since the state highway departments spent $22 million in cleaning up their highway systems in 1963 with vehicles traveling 324 billion miles, the cost comes to seven-thousands-of a cent per mile, KAB explained.

The 1963 figure will become the starting base figure --- '100' on the Index. Each future year's cleanup cost will be measured to show whether the "litterbugs are in retreat" or that they are strewing more litter than before.

THINKING FREEDOM THROUGH

It is not sufficient just to be for freedom. We must know why we are for it.

Freedom may, and should, inspire our souls. But if we do not use our heads we will never keep it.

Freedom is not good simply because we are used to it or happen to like it. It is not good just because our Founding Fathers, great as they were, loved it. To take freedom for granted or by custom is a contradiction in terms and we will not keep it long on those terms.

Freedom is good because it makes possible a man living the kind of life proper to men. A beast of burden can do the work of a slave. A lion, a tiger or a shark can plunder and destroy. The leader of a band of baboons can rule by force.

But man has a reasoning mind and a constructive will. He can use that mind and will to build a better life for himself and everyone around him. So long as there is freedom, those men who do use their minds and will in this way will succeed.

But when freedom is destroyed, men are crushed and reduced to hopeless, endless labor or savage marauding.

Freedom gives every man a chance, and the most competent and diligent the best opportunity to succeed. Centralized power gives nobody a change except those who are a part of the ruling machinery, and they soon become potential dictators.

Freedom and force are enemies; they cannot coexist.

"Don't Get Us Wrong, Officer, We're Putting Money IN"

ROSS LEWIS, MILWAUKEE JOURNAL

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK AP -- "As with most women, I am not at my best in the morning," said Gina Lollobrigida.

"The day should start at noon. If I am going to have a fight with someone, I have it in the morning. If I have a pleasant romantic rendezvous, I like it in the afternoon or evening."

These opening remarks as we sat down to luncheon left me somewhat in a dilema. Should I put up my dukes, or recite a love sonnet to Miss Lollobrigida?

The dark - haired Italian actress is tempestuous as well as beautiful. Critics have said many things about her many-faceted personality. She herself once remarked drily, "I am an expert on Gina."

Here, then, is Gina on Gina and on life:

"I live wherever I'm working. I fly so much home is where I am now.

"I like to have few but good friends. Enthusiasm. My son more than anything else in the world. The color red when I feel good, black when I'm moody. Gardenias, antique furniture and Etruscan vases. I'd rather spend my money on art than jewels or furs.

"I like red wine, Alastian wolf hounds -- the big animals not little ones -- summer, emeralds, reading Sartre, Chekhov, Steinbeck and Faulkner; listening to classical or jazz music, soft lights, the smell of babies, people with strong personalities, Chinese food and shish kebab.

"I don't like dishonesty, insincere people, ennui, to be late to engagements, the wind, neon lights, sleeping in airplanes and waking to find I don't have my feet on the ground, small insects.

"When I have a nightmare, I dream a bee is going into my ear. The thing I am most afraid of is flies.

"My moods are like an elevator -- always going up or down. My biggest fault is that I'm insecure most of the time. I envy people who can think straight all the time, who always know just what they want. I'm not that way.

"To me life is surprise-- and I like that. I don't like programs. It's much better to wonder about tomorrow.

"My philosophy is simple. It is this -- that tomorrow is a good day.

"Today is important, too, of course, but I never think about the past. It makes me sad. I don't regret what I did. I would make the same decisions again.

"But when we remember it is like watching a different person, because we are always changing in life.

"I don't want to live behind me.

"Who likes to look at dead flowers?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

En route through the Caribbean — carrying out President Johnson's idea of spending U.S. dollars on the beautiful scenery of the USA, I write today about one of our greatest tourist attractions, a three-hour flight from New York — the Virgin Islands.

I must confess a certain amount of personal prejudice regarding these islands, because my father, Paul M. Pearson, was their first civilian governor. He took over when they were a ragtag, down-at-the-heel, unknown set of islands which President Herbert Hoover called an "effective poorhouse." My father had persuaded Hoover to come to the islands in order to publicize them and I remember how stung he and other islanders were when Hoover held up their poverty for the world to see.

Mr. Hoover was, of course, right. We had purchased the islands from Denmark in 1917 because we feared the Kaiser would take over the wonderful natural harbor of St. Thomas as a submarine base. But having purchased the Virgins we did nothing about them for the next 15 years, and in 1931 the efficient Mr. Hoover would have liked to turn them back to the Danes — free.

Little did he realize — nor did most people — that the azure blue of the Caribbean, the quaint streets of St. Thomas, the pristine beauty of St. John, and the palm-studded beaches of St. Croix would be worth millions of tourist dollars.

The new governor, faced with the problem of bringing a modicum of prosperity to this poverty-stricken area, saw that its chief asset was its beauty. He tried some other remedies — the revival of sugar and rum —but the chief economic salvation of the Virgin Islands, he figured, was beauty.

—A GOVERNMENT HOTEL—

At that time, however, there was only one old-fashioned hotel on the islands. There was not one adequate restaurant; and the bathing beaches, though beautiful, had no accommodations for dressing. Furthermore, no airplanes went to the Virgin Islands. In 1931 there was one little mail boat which crossed from Puerto Rico twice a week and took about half a day to get there. The steamship trip from New York required about four days.

So the governor had to build the tourist traffic from the ground up.

The first thing he did was to persuade the Interior Department in Washington to permit him to organize a government company, the Virgin Islands Corporation, to start a hotel, and go into the tourist business.

This was thirty years before the Commerce Department started its present tourist office to entice tourists to the United States. In 1931-32, however, the Republican Administration of Herbert Hoover set up a government corporation which not only went into the rum and sugar businesses but bought an old castle once used by the famed pirate, Bluebeard, and turned it into the first real hotel on the islands.

Democrats in Congress yelled "socialism." However, the plan worked. Other hotels were built, these by private enterprise, and gradually tourists began going to the Virgin Islands.

The new civilian governor also started entertainment festivals, similar to those now conducted in Cape Cod, Venice, Italy, and along the Adriatic Coast of Yugoslavia.

This aroused another storm of criticism. Sen. Millard Tydings, Maryland Democrat, and Ralph Paiwonsky, Democratic National Committeeman and father of the present governor, screamed "waste of the taxpayers' money," and started a Senate investigation.

—SENATE INVESTIGATES—

It was discovered, however, that the new governor had persuaded the musical talent to come to the islands without salary, had persuaded the Bull Line to contribute free passage, and had borrowed the costumes from old Chautauqua warehouses.

My father also organized the Virgin Islands Cooperative among native women, to weave baskets and make mats for sale to the tourists. He persuaded the cruise ships to stop at St. Thomas, and gradually the islands began to attract people from the mainland of the United States.

Today, the first civilian governor, were he alive, would have no difficulty recognizing the beautiful bathing beaches, the quaint streets, the roads curving around the hilltops of the islands which he loved. But he would not recognize the new hotels, the glamorous restaurants, the night clubs, the throngs of tourists.

He would rub his eyes at the giant airport of St. Croix, to which Pan American operates nonstop jets from New York, cutting the travel time down from four days by steamship to three hours by air.

And he would be especially delighted with the small island of St. John. It had a population of 700 people when Father was governor, and its population is not much more than that today. This is one of its charms. In Caneel Bay you can snorkel for a mile or so watching the rainbow-colored fish, the coral, the sand made emerald green by the sunlight and the water.

The old stone sugar mills, which brought slavery and prosperity to the island more than one hundred years ago, still stand. But their windmills spin no more and the line of donkeys carrying cane up to their maws moves no more. Cane is cultivated now only on the bigger island of St. Croix, and there is another kind of prosperity on St. John.

It has now been made a national park, thanks to the generosity of Laurence Rockefeller and to the foresight of the first civilian governor, who saw that the Virgin Islands, then an effective poorhouse, could become the most attractive American playground in the Caribbean.

It's one of the places where, as President Johnson suggests, American citizens can spend American dollars without upsetting the balance of payments abroad.

Inside Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

Walter Reuther, Recovered From Lung Surgery, Now Building 'New Unionism' Everywhere

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Walter Reuther's strange bursts of silence have nothing to do with his recent lung operation.

He has fully recovered from surgery of his barrel chest. For a man who does not smoke nor drink he is in good shape and quite ready to use his lung power when the time comes.

But he awaits the moment with caution. He chose silence during the recent session of labor's high command council in Florida because he is a leader-in-waiting in the court of labor.

Reuther has not junked his dreams of unleashing wide organizing drives. Those who think so forget he still is head of the AFL-CIO's national organizing department.

Though publicly he appears to be standing still, he is quietly working behind the scenes with many dynamic young labor leaders who still are as unknown as the last names of Damon and Pythias.

Reuther can afford to wait for these men of the second and third echelon leadership to develop strength — and to build a new unionism.

He is 57. Many of those who have fought him — are his elders by more than a decade. In Florida, Reuther did not try to oust some of the old timers from labor's high command. Instead, he conjectured that the new unionism would drive them out in a year or two.

"There is a new unionism," asserted one of the men who has been his intimate for years. "Things are stirring. Walter is quietly helping them to stir in areas one would least expect to see hard-headed, well organized union drives."

To the Reuther people the new unionism consists of the surging militancy amongst the teachers, insurance company employes, federal workers, those in state, county and municipal offices, and even the new young scientists and technicians of the space age.

Typical are the Reuther-sparking unionizing campaigns to sign-up one million school teachers — not only in the big cities but in suburbia.

The big push amongst the teachers will be the pattern for the assistance in the rest of the non-blue collar and professional fields. Most of this aid comes from a virtually unknown section of the AFL-CIO known as the Industrial Union Dept. (IUD).

Reuther heads it. With a treasury totaling more than $3 million and an affiliated membership of over 5 million it can move hard and swiftly.

In recent months it has set up new teachers' unionizing units every few weeks. The newest are in Long Island, New York, upper Michigan and sections of California.

The strategy is similar to what was devised when Reuther and other IUD officials met in New York City several years back to crack the first target — the big town's 40,000 teachers.

Experienced organizers were brought in. A "very substantial sum of money" was lent to the new United Federation of Teachers. College men were hired as temporary organizers. When money ran short, the IUD signed its guarantee to bank notes for big loans.

Some of Reuther's organizers were in the city for over a year, some for a few months. Thus it has been in Philadelphia, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Boston and a string of other communities across the land.

Leader of the New York teachers, 55-year-old Charles Cogen, later shifted to the national American Federation of Teachers in Chicago. He was replaced in the city by lanky 38-year-old militant, Al Shanker, now talking of striking the huge school system on opening day next September.

None of this is hit and miss. There is a blueprint for action. The IUD matches the money raised by the teachers unions in each locality.

Then manpower is poured in. The drive on the school system is carefully planned after the sociological measurements of the community are taken.

In some fashion or other, this technique is — and will be — used in burgeoning space industries, amongst the technicians and professionals.

Merely substitute a "think factory", a federal bureau, a municipal building, an experimental installation or an insurance firm for a public school and you have the pattern.

While Reuther waits, he makes peace with many of the veterans of the powerful building and construction trades — whose unions number over 3 million members. This he did quite actively in Florida last week.

So, silence from Walter Reuther means nothing. One can be on the march without awakening echoing thunder across the land.

Fellowship Supper Held Sunday Night

MOREHOUSE -- The Monthly Fellowship supper was held Sunday night in the Fellowship Hall of the Rauch - Spence Memorial Methodist Church in Morehouse. The table was decorated representing the book study of Spanish American people that the W. S. C. S. is studying. About fifty people attended.

T.E.L. Class Has Monthly Meeting

The T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist Church held its meeting Tuesday night March 2, with 15 members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Martha Anderson and the devotional given by Mrs. Grover Lewis.

Among the business transacted was changing the meeting time from night to day. The April meeting will be a pot-luck dinner, which will be held at the church at 12:30 p.m. on April 6th. The meeting closed with Mrs. Orrin Hunt, teacher, reviewing an article, "If We Fail To Go," by John T. Sisemore.

During the social hour the members exchanged aprons, which was to have been held in February, but postponed due to the inclement weather.

The hostesses were Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Guy Calvin, Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Mary Sisson. The table was decorated with Shamrocks and the color scheme was carried out in the refreshments.

Campbell Pullias Will Be Church Guest Speaker

March 7 marks the beginning of a series of preaching services to be conducted at the Northside Church of Christ, Highway 61 North, Sikeston, Missouri. The speaker for these services will be Campbell Pullias.

Mr. Pullias was formerly minister of the Jackson Avenue Church of Christ in Memphis, Tennessee. Since he and his family have been residing in Sikeston he has preached on a number of occasions at the Northside Church of Christ. He is a very capable and dynamic speaker.

The members of the Northside Church of Christ invite the public to attend these services. These services will continue from March 7 through March 14. The time will be 7:30 each evening.

Church Of God Guest Speaker Is Rev. Richardson

Rev. Charles R. Richardson of Anderson, Indiana, will be guest minister at Tanner Street Church of God March 8-14. Services will be at 7:30 p.m. nightly Monday through Friday and at 9:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Rev. Richardson has served pastorates in Atlanta, Georgia; Norfolk, Virginia; Los Angeles, California and Danville, Kentucky. From 1950 to 1962 he was State Evangelist for the Church of God in Kentucky.

Rev. Richardson is presently serving as a minister-at-large in the Church of God preaching for special revival services throughout the nation.

Pastor of the local church, Oral Withrow, has announced that members of Tanner Street Church of God will be inviting their neighbors and friends to share in the week of spiritual enrichment and evangelism.

ANN LANDERS
Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is the type who must have the last word -- no matter what it costs him. Well it is now costing him 15 days in jail.

It all started with a speeding ticket. My husband said he was not speeding -- that the cop was laying for him. He refused to pay the ticket and went to court to plead not guilty. When the judge reminded my husband that he had been nabbed for speeding twice in the past two years he got mad and called the judge a name. The judge gave him 15 days.

So now what am I to tell our six-year-old son? How will he feel if he knows his father is in jail? Will it scar him for life? I need answers and I need them now. -- UNDONE

Dear Un: Do yourself up and tell your son the truth. Explain that people who drive cars must follow the rules or pay the penalty -- which in this case was a jail sentence.

Make it clear that Daddy did not rob a bank or kill anyone but that he did break a law -- and laws must be obeyed if we are to have a world safe for everybody.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son, who will soon be six, plays with some little boys in the neighborhood who are older than he is.

Some of the words he has picked up are not very nice, in fact they are filthy. We are sure he doesn't know what the words mean because he says these words in the presence of guests. Naturally it is very embarrassing to the guests, as well as to us.

It is difficult to conceal shock when he comes up with gutter words, in the presence of the minister, for instance. My husband and I don't know how to deal with the problem and we are enlisting your help. --- PARENTS OF LITTLE BOY BLUE

Dear Parents: Your son will continue to use gutter words so long as they have shock value.

When children use dirty words -- whether guests are present or not -- parents should register no shock or horror. Simply say, "We don't talk like that in our family," and change the subject. If the child persists he should be sent to his room.

By the time they are 12 most kids have heard all the words, or read them on bathroom walls, and nobody ever died from words.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a faithful reader of your column and I'm pleased that you have the courage to tackle certain problems which most people would be inclined to duck. I refer specifically to the careless female who ignores the basics of hygiene, such as soap and water, tooth paste, comb and deodorants.

Your suggestion that the most gentle and understanding woman in the office speak to her is unrealistic, however. In our own office, the most gentle and understanding woman told me "I'd rather die." So I accepted the responsibility because I felt a young girl had to be told.

The poor thing heard me out, then broke down and wept. She finally sobbed, "But nobody ever told me."

For three days she avoided me but I noticed that her appearance improved 100%. Others noticed it too, but I never let on that we had had a chat.

Several days later I received two dozen roses. The card read, "Thank you -- more than words can express." It was unsigned but I know who had sent the bouquet. -- SACRIFICIAL LAMB.

Dear Lamb: A low bow for doing what needed to be done, although it was a difficult and unpleasant chore.

No teen-ager is as confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bloomfield Goes To State

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- "We intend to come back from Columbia as the number one team in the State." That's what Tom Hewgley, Bloomfield Coach, stated after last night's hard earned victory over the surprisingly tough Advance Hornets. The Wildcats won the game 53-47, but they had their moments of doubts before coming in with the win. This is the first Missouri basketball team that has been able to come out leading at the end of the first half.

The Wildcats journey to Columbia for the Semi-Finals in Class "M" State Tournament Friday where they play the defending Class "M" Champions, the Buffalo Bisons. The game will begin at 7:00.

In the early game of the first quarter the Wildcats moved out to lead 6-0 before the Hornets could tell what hit them. Bill Morgan broke the ice for Advance by pulling off a three point play with 5:48 left. The cold-shooting Wildcats came out of the first period leading 13-9.

Bob Moroni got hot the second period to tear loose for ten points. Just two less than the whole team scored in the quarter for Advance. He tied the score for the first time with 2:12 left in the half at 20-20 on a beautiful twisting lay-in. Bloomfield brought the ball back into play only to have a pass picked off. The Hornets froze it until :09 seconds was left. Mike Wise in an attempt to steal the ball drew his third personal foul of the game. Moroni hit the first shot of the one and one situation to end first half scoring with Advance leading 21-20. Moroni made 13 of his 19 point total in their hot scoring first half.

The Wildcats, still suffering from possibly the coldest shooting night they have had all season, could not pull abreast of Advance until Dennis Gillespie broke down the tough defense of the Hornets. He scorched the nets for 11 consecutive points to put the Wildcats into their 34-32 third period lead. He paced all scoring with 25 points for the game.

From there Bloomfield led all the way.

Bloomfield Can Come Back

How did the Hornets get within range of the Bloomfield Wildcats last night? For one thing they got through the Bloomfield press. Another thing they seemed to be up for the ballgame. Another thing still, Bloomfield did not get to the auditorium until late and the start of the game had to be delayed for fifteen minutes. A trip like the one that they had to make last night can have tiring and psychological effects on a basketball team and from all appearances, that happened to the Wildcats, for they looked real sluggish at the start of the game.

I think that the game may prove beneficial to the Wildcats for they haven't had a close one since their loss to the Memphis Kingsbury Falcons. Another thing impressing about the Wildcats is that they were in trouble, but still they didn't crack. They had to come back from their cold shooting.

If they play like they did last night against the Buffalo Bisons they will probably end up playing for the consolation game at Columbia. If they get back on the track and play their usual tough press defense effectively then they will dehide the Bisons. I personally pick Bloomfield to take the State Tournament. They have what it takes to come back from a game like the one last night.

Wildcats, I would like to congratulate you and wish you the best of luck against the best in the state. This is the first Bloomfield team in history to go to state.

Coaches Should Have Freedom

Did you know that a coach is trained to do his job? Then why do you fans, parents, and players try to run ballclubs? Just like any other club, a ballclub has to have certain rules.

There has to be a team unit that plays together. There has to be hustle, hard work, training, careful body preparation, desire, and unselfishness to be on a basketball team or any team for that matter.

If a young man cannot abide by the rules, then he is not a player on the club in the first place.

And another thing, every coach is a different person with ideas all his own about putting a ballclub together. He has ideas that are different from coaches there previously and he has ideas different from the public's. In the first place if you want a particular type of coach, then be careful in selecting the coach. Don't blame him for running the ballclub the best way he sees fit. Don't you try making a living the best way you see fit?

Still another thing. If a ballplayer does not abide by the rules, even different rules than what he has been accustomed, he should be kicked off the team for the benefit of himself, the team, and the teams to come. It doesn't make any difference if even he is an ace player. Thank you.

Koufax Hurts But Is Still Satisfied

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax hurts all over and Los Angeles Dodger brass couldn't be happier about it.

Koufax reported the usual case of winter hibernation aches and pains following his first workout of the spring Wednesday. Then why the smiles around the Dodgers' Vero Beach, Fla., camp?

Well, Koufax' left arm — the one that wins all those ball games and has earned Sandy three straight National League earned run titles — came through its first test in fine fashion.

Koufax missed the last six weeks of the 1964 season with an inflammation of his left elbow, suffered in a slide at Milwaukee. The 29-year-old Dodger southpaw gave his arm its first test Wednesday and was quite content with the results.

"I ache all over," Koufax said after hurling 15 minutes of batting practice. "About the time I started to get loose, I got too tired to pitch anymore. But there was no trouble with my arm. Everything is fine."

And while Koufax' first workout was brightening the Dodger camp, the San Francisco Giants weren't making much progress with two other pitchers, veteran Bob Shaw, and Japanese lefthander Masanori Murakami.

Shaw won five games in relief early last season before slumping badly and remarked, "If I started poorly last season and finished strong, and wound up with the same won-lost record, they probably would have offered me a raise."

To which Giant Vice President Chub Feeney replied, "If he pitched in the first half the way he did in the second half, he wouldn't have been on the team — he would have been in Tacoma," — a farm team.

The Giants got some moral support from Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick in the Murakami case. The commissioner said "the Giants have proof they legally purchased Murakami's contract. If he fails to report and is suspended, we expect the suspension to be recognized in Japan the same as it is in the United States."

Frick said if the Japanese Baseball Federation does not recognize the Giants' rights to Murakami, "the proposed trip of the Pittsburgh Pirates to Japan next fall will be canceled."

Evansville And Southern Ill. In Third Clash

Evansville's undefeated Aces, defending NCAA college-division basketball champions and No. 1 in The Associated Press small-college poll for the second straight season, are looking forward to a third meeting with Southern Illinois.

Evansville's closest brushes with disaster this season came in two one-point victories over Southern Illinois, which placed third in the final AP poll.

The Aces and the Salukis, starting the NCAA tournament trial in regionals this week, can meet again in Evansville for the small-college championship. To make it, each will have to defeat four opponents in tourney games.

Evansville Coach Arad McCutchan said, "From the standpoint of winning you'd possibly like to play somebody else, but Southern Illinois is a great team and they deserve another shot at us. We wouldn't like to see them rubbed out by some other team."

McCutchan said he and his players have been feeling no special pressure from being unbeaten and favored.

"We try to take a casual attitude toward it," he said. "It may be this is the time it may start. We realize it's one defeat and out."

To avoid staleness, McCutchan is keeping workouts hard but short — no more than 90 minutes for his starters.

Evansville won't get a tournament shot at Central State of Ohio, No. 2 in the small college poll and the only other undefeated team in the Top Ten. Central State is not in the NCAA tourney.

First Round Play Completed In Dexter Regional

Dexter - First round play was completed at the Dexter Class "L" Regional last night with all seeded teams winning their games. The Jackson Indians dumped the Kennett Indians, but not hard, 58-51. Cape Central took a thriller from Fredericktown 75-74 in a come from behind effort.

Jackson (58)
Kennett (51)

Wayne Hennecke scored 25 big tallies to lead the Indians into the victory path. In the first period Jackson was leading 17-15 but Kennett came a charging back the second period to pull up by one 25-24. They continued their assault in the third quarter to pull further into the lead 46-41. Jackson dug in tough to hold the Kennett Indians down to five points the last frame while scoring 17 themselves to come in with the hard earned victory.

Cape (75)
Frederick town(74)

Central led throughout most of the game but the Black Cats staged a blistering last half attack that all but put down the hot and cold Tigers. At the end of the first half Cape was holding a 34-24 advantage. Fredericktown cut away two of the ten they trailed by in the third frame and in the last period they pulled into the lead but couldn't hold on to come in with the victory.

'65 CHEVROLET

These great performers are the lowest priced models at our One-Stop Shopping Center

Top to bottom: Chevy II 100, Corvair 500, Chevelle 300, Chevrolet Biscayne. All 2-door models.

Hard to tell at a glance that each of these beauties is the lowest priced in its line. The ride doesn't show it. Or the interior. Or the performance. Just the price sticker.

That luxurious '65 Biscayne has the room of many expensive cars. Plus a handsome color-keyed interior with plush vinyls, fine fabrics, full deep-twist carpeting.

Chevelle, America's favorite intermediate-size car, has clean new styling, wide-opening doors, roomy, tastefully trimmed interior, and all the easy-care features of the big Chevrolet.

Chevy II got a whole lot smarter for '65—but kept its common sense! Still family-size, easy to handle, economical, and the lowest priced Chevrolet out.

Both Corvair Sport Coupe and Sport Sedan have the international flavor of a rear engine hardtop, promise fun for the months ahead.

Chevrolet, Chevelle and Chevy II are available with the economical Turbo-Thrift Six engine. It's economical, warms up quickly, idles silently. It's light, efficient, quiet, and spirited.

Corvair's rear-mounted Turbo-Air Six delivers the best balance and traction for this size car. It's air-cooled—no water or antifreeze.

So be practical. Check the great offer on your old car, the low payments on your new one. Only you will know how practical you've been. Because it sure won't show!

Bloomfield Goes To State

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- "We intend to come back from Columbia as the number one team in the State." That's what Tom Hewgley, Bloomfield Coach, stated after last night's hard earned victory over the surprisingly tough Advance Hornets. The Wildcats won the game 53-47, but they had their moments of doubts before coming in with the win. This is the first Missouri basketball team that has been able to come out leading at the end of the first half.

Evansville And Southern Ill. In Third Clash

Evansville's undefeated Aces, defending NCAA college-division basketball champions and No. 1 in The Associated Press small-college poll for the second straight season, are looking forward to a third meeting with Southern Illinois.

Evansville's closest brushes with disaster this season came in two one-point victories over Southern Illinois, which placed third in the final AP poll.

The Aces and the Salukis, starting the NCAA tournament trial in regionals this week, can meet again in Evansville for the small-college championship. To make it, each will have to defeat four opponents in tourney games.

Evansville Coach Arad McCutchan said, "From the standpoint of winning you'd possibly like to play somebody else, but Southern Illinois is a great team and they deserve another shot at us. We wouldn't like to see them rubbed out by some other team."

McCutchan said he and his players have been feeling no special pressure from being unbeaten and favored.

"We try to take a casual attitude toward it," he said. "It may be this is the time it may start. We realize it's one defeat and out."

To avoid staleness, McCutchan is keeping workouts hard but short — no more than 90 minutes for his starters.

Evansville won't get a tournament shot at Central State of Ohio, No. 2 in the small college poll and the only other undefeated team in the Top Ten. Central State is not in the NCAA tourney.

First Round Play Completed In Dexter Regional

Dexter - First round play was completed at the Dexter Class "L" Regional last night with all seeded teams winning their games. The Jackson Indians dumped the Kennett Indians, but not hard, 58-51. Cape Central took a thriller from Fredericktown 75-74 in a come from behind effort.

Jackson (58)
Kennett (51)

Wayne Hennecke scored 25 big tallies to lead the Indians into the victory path. In the first period Jackson was leading 17-15 but Kennett came a charging back the second period to pull up by one 25-24. They continued their assault in the third quarter to pull further into the lead 46-41. Jackson dug in tough to hold the Kennett Indians down to five points the last frame while scoring 17 themselves to come in with the hard earned victory.

Cape (75)
Frederick town(74)

Central led throughout most of the game but the Black Cats staged a blistering last half attack that all but put down the hot and cold Tigers. At the end of the first half Cape was holding a 34-24 advantage. Fredericktown cut away two of the ten they trailed by in the third frame and in the last period they pulled into the lead but couldn't hold on to come in with the victory.

'65 CHEVROLET

These great performers are the lowest priced models at our One-Stop Shopping Center

Top to bottom: Chevy II 100, Corvair 500, Chevelle 300, Chevrolet Biscayne. All 2-door models.

Hard to tell at a glance that each of these beauties is the lowest priced in its line. The ride doesn't show it. Or the interior. Or the performance. Just the price sticker.

That luxurious '65 Biscayne has the room of many expensive cars. Plus a handsome color-keyed interior with plush vinyls, fine fabrics, full deep-twist carpeting.

Chevelle, America's favorite intermediate-size car, has clean new styling, wide-opening doors, roomy, tastefully trimmed interior, and all the easy-care features of the big Chevrolet.

Chevy II got a whole lot smarter for '65—but kept its common sense! Still family-size, easy to handle, economical, and the lowest priced Chevrolet out.

Both Corvair Sport Coupe and Sport Sedan have the international flavor of a rear engine hardtop, promise fun for the months ahead.

Chevrolet, Chevelle and Chevy II are available with the economical Turbo-Thrift Six engine. It's economical, warms up quickly, idles silently. It's light, efficient, quiet, and spirited.

Corvair's rear-mounted Turbo-Air Six delivers the best balance and traction for this size car. It's air-cooled—no water or antifreeze.

So be practical. Check the great offer on your old car, the low payments on your new one. Only you will know how practical you've been. Because it sure won't show!

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

If House Bill 33, now dormant in the Senate Education Committee, is passed by the Missouri General Assembly in its present form, it will mean near $120,000 more school funds per year from the state for our schools in Sikeston. It would take an additional local tax levy of $.83 to equal this amount. With this added money in our budget our Board of Education could make a substantial increase to teacher's salaries and upgrade other educational services so necessary for the improvement of our educational program for the children of the community.

The former and present Comptroller of the State of Missouri, about two months ago, estimated that there would be an additional $162,000,000 in the State Treasury for the biennium. It would require only about $24,000,000 each year to finance the improvements asked for in the school program. So, on the basis of the best evidence, statements from the Comptrollers, the requested school legislation could be financed and still would leave very considerable sums for improvement of other state services. However, in spite of the fact that it appears there would be more than the required funds available, some Senators are using the old excuse "we don't know where the money is coming from" to slow or perhaps prevent this much needed school legislation. All interested persons should make it known to our Senator Albert Spradling of Cape Girardeau that the passage of this legislation, so badly needed to improve opportunities for our children, is a "must" and ask for his aggressive support in getting it done. Senator Spradling has in the past been a strong advocate of better public elementary and secondary education and has been a leader in legislation for school improvement.

According to the last U.S. decennial census the average grade completed by adults over 25 years of age in Scott County is 8.6 or 6 months above the 8th grade, for Stoddard County 8.3, for Mississippi 7.7, New Madrid 7.8, Pemiscot 7.5 and Dunklin 8.3. Taken as a group these Bootheel counties are lower in average educational level than is any other section of the state. Perhaps this is one reason why the Bootheel has been designated as an area for assistance from the Economic Opportunity Act, commonly called the "War on Poverty Program".

Unquestionably there is a direct connection between educational level and income. Where people are poorly educated, they are poorly paid and of course, the reverse is equally true. High income and good education go together.

No community or state can realize its economic potential unless it is willing to support good schools at all levels.

The chairman of the Visiting Evaluation Committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, of which we are a member, who visited and evaluated our schools last spring, made the following comment in their very lengthy report. "In view of the assessed evaluation behind every school child, the Board of Education and the administrative staff are to be commended for the educational program that is being provided to meet the needs of the students. What these men have done with the finances that have been made available is almost miraculous."

Naturally we are proud of their statement that we are spending the tax dollar effectively to get as much education as possible, but we regret that we do not have at least enough funds to place us on an equal position with the average of other schools in the nation. We could then improve a good program to perhaps even to an excellent one.

Mr. Bob Miller, Director of Elementary Education has appointed a committee of teachers and lay members to work with both school and city library officials to develop a list of recommended reading materials to give to each child at the end of the school term for summer reading. The committee would also work with both libraries in providing the books and other publications recommended. Members of the committee are:

Mrs. Nellie Wilson, Chairman; Mrs. Mildred Cooper, Vice Chairman; Mrs. Ida Fulton; Mrs. Evelyn Barnett; Mrs. Velna Crouthers; Mrs. Violetta McGee; Mrs. Audra B. Smith, Lay Member; Mrs. Anna Belle Cochran; Mrs. Zelpha Davis; Mrs. Dorothy Pennington; Mrs. Norma Forbis; Mrs. Eula Underwood; Mrs. Oberlin Nunnelee; and Mrs. Ruth Sappenfield, Lay Member.

We expect an attendance of 400 to 500 teachers at the Reading Workshop which is to be held at the Senior High School Saturday.

Some of the leading authorities on reading in the United States will be present to lead the discussions.

According to Bob Miller and our elementary principals who are making the local arrangements, the workshop is under the direction of Science Research Associates, an organization active in the development of new materials and techniques for the teaching of reading. Teachers from points as distant as Columbia and St. Louis will participate with representatives of almost all local area schools. Over 65 teachers from the elementary schools here will participate.

School will be dismissed next Thursday and Friday, March 11 and 12, in order that all faculty members may attend the annual professional meeting of the Southeast Missouri Teachers Association. This meeting, as usual, will be held at State College.

Morehouse News

The Morehouse Schools will dismiss for the Southeast Missouri Teachers Meeting which will be held at the Southeast Missouri State College on March 11th and 12th.

The Morehouse F.H.A. Home Economics Organization held their regular meeting Monday, February 15 at 7:00 P.M. The meeting was called to order by President, Linda Jackson. The business transacted consisted of the appointment of Judy Harris to succeed Toni Green as Parliamentarian. Toni asked to be relieved of her office as she was not always able to attend meetings.

Following the business meeting, the group was addressed by Rev. Glen Bohannon, Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Morehouse. Rev. Bohannon presented a film entitled, "Family Give and Take," after which he made comments on such. The group enjoyed the film very much and take this means of expressing their appreciation to Rev. Bohannon. After the program, refreshments were served.

On Friday, March 5, Ann Wilson, Ellen Painter, and Miss Flier will travel to the Lake of the Ozarks where they will stay overnight with Miss Flier's parents, and attend the State F. H. A. meeting on Saturday, March 6 in Jefferson City.

Mr. Jackson attended the New Madrid Administrator's meeting held in New Madrid on Wednesday, March 3.

The Morehouse Senior Class have selected the senior play which will be presented on April 23. The play to be presented is entitled, "Aunt Cathie's Cat" and is a mystery comedy in 3 acts. The cast is being selected at this time. Mrs. Judy Peters and Mr. John Bohannon the senior sponsors will direct the play.

DEPARTMENTAL INTEGRATION

29. Recommendation:

That the office of director of the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations be created by statute; that the director be appointed by the Governor, subject to confirmation by the Senate; and that he be vested with administrative authority, including the appointment of division heads, over the units of the department, with the exception of the Industrial Commission, the Division of Employment Security, the State Mediation Board, and the Board of Rehabilitation.

This recommendation of the 1955 Commission is repeated since its effect would improve the administrative efficiency of the department. Each of the operating divisions now answers directly to the Governor; budgeting, reporting, and purchasing are autonomous functions performed by each division; and there is an absence of departmental control over the separate divisions.

The proposed departmental director should be concerned with coordinating administrative services among the divisions. The Industrial Commission would continue in its role of hearing appeals and establishing rules.

The Division of Employment Security should probably remain autonomous because of its close relationship with the federal government. However, the departmental director should be familiar with facilities maintained by the Division of Employment Security that may be made available on occasion for departmental administrative work. The Division of Employment Security maintains data processing equipment that could be made available for limited use by the other departmental divisions. Since funds for operating the Division of Employment Security come from the federal government, any arrangement should be mutually agreeable to the director of the Division of Employment Security and the departmental director.

The departmental director should establish policies that promote efficiency, for example: combining the duties of departmental inspectors where possible. The 1955 Commission indicated some inspections for safety are not efficiently coordinated or combined within the department. It is recognized that industrial safety inspection may differ from safety inspection of mines; however, these differences may be diminished by an alert departmental director interested in the most efficient use of field inspectors' time.

30. Recommendation:

That the director of the Department of Labor and Industrial Relations be ex officio the director of the Division of Workmen's Compensation.

Work loads of the department's operating divisions--Workmen's Compensation, Industrial Inspection, and Mine Inspection--have not substantially changed since this recommendation was made by the 1955 Commission. A departmental director could apparently coordinate the common administrative services of the department and still efficiently supervise one of the operating divisions.

Assigning the departmental director as ex officio director of one of the operating divisions would permit the department to operate under a more efficient structure without creating an additional executive position.

CHAPTER IX
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH AND WELFARE

The Missouri Constitution provides that the General Assembly shall create a Department of Public Health and Welfare, but leaves to the General Assembly the determination of the organizational structure of the department and the functions to be performed by it.

The legislature in 1945 established the Department of Public Health and Welfare. A director is appointed by the Governor with senatorial consent for a term of four years to run concurrently with that of the Governor. The director, however, is subject to removal by the Governor. He is required by law "to be a citizen of the state of Missouri and of administrative ability, integrity and honor, with qualifications fitting him for successful performance of his official duties."

Three divisions within the department are provided by law: the Division of Health; the Division of Mental Diseases; and the Division of Welfare. The directors of the Divisions of Health and Welfare are appointed by the Governor with consent of the Senate.

The director of the Division of Mental Diseases is appointed by the Mental Health Commission for a term of four years. The statutes provide that the director of each division shall, "subject to the supervision of the director of the department," be the chief administrative office of his division. It is also provided by statute that the director of the department shall set forth the duties and responsibilities of all officials and employees of the department. The department director is also authorized by law to establish departmental bureaus for research and statistics, personnel, finance and work related to the overall activities of the department. In 1956 the director established a Bureau of Safety and Fire Prevention to carry out a program of inspection of all the institutions in the department.

Despite such formal powers, each of the three divisions operates with considerable independence of the director of the department. Budgeting, purchasing, personnel, and reporting are handled separately by each division with only a minimum of control from the director of the department. Each divisional director has direct contact with the Governor on matters pertaining to his division.

MAIN DISH FOR LENT HAS A DANISH FLAIR

Add new flavor and interest to Lenten meals with a trick learned from great Danish cooks — use the wonder-working flavor of Danish Blue Cheese to give your meatless meals inimitable flair, Danish style.

If you know good cheese you probably enjoy the tangy Danish Blue, creamy white with characteristic blue veining, in salad dressing, as a spread for crackers, or with fruit or pie. But we've also discovered that talented Danish Blue can bestow appealing flavor in cooking, especially in bland-flavored dishes such as fish or eggs. It gives real distinction to the topping for a meatless casserole.

The ingredients in this colorful Supper Pie are all shelf or refrigerator staples, quick to combine and heat. The results are memorable — this casserole has a very special flavor, and the delicious difference is Danish Blue Cheese.

Lenten Supper Pie, Danish Style

- 1 package (½ pound) green noodles (or regular noodles)
- 1 can (6½ oz.) crab meat
- 1 can (9 oz.) tuna, chunk style
- 1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 1 can (10½ oz.) condensed cream of celery soup
- Basil, curry powder, minced onion, thyme
- 3 hard-cooked eggs, deviled or halved
- 4 ounces Danish Blue Cheese

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Pick over crab meat and flake. Drain tuna. Combine crab and tuna with mushrooms, soup, and seasonings to taste. Heat gently. Drain noodles, toss with oil, and arrange in a ring in a shallow round baking dish or deep pie plate, making a well in the center. Put the hot fish mixture into the well. Arrange the eggs around the edge and sprinkle all with Danish Blue Cheese. Bake briefly in a hot oven (400° F.) until cheese melts and begins to brown, or brown under the broiler. Serve in pie-shaped wedges. Makes 6 main-dish servings.

Show and Tell Dud Grenade Goes to School

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Lt. Lloyd B. Smith of the Jackson County's Sheriff's Patrol was showing a film on the safe handling of weapons to about 80 members of the Parent-Teachers Association at Benton School last night when Ernest Norcross, the principal, stepped up and whispered to him.

LeRoy Ream, who served 22 years in the Army before he became janitor, had found a hand grenade on the teacher's desk in a third-grade classroom.

Lt. Smith sent out calls for the Independence police and ordnance experts stationed at Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base 20 miles across the southeast outskirts of Kansas City.

"I don't know why," Lt. Smith said, "but I put the grenade in a paper napkin and put it in the snow behind the school."

At the conclusion of the film, he told the audience about it. They thought he was joking until the police arrived and set up a guard around the school grounds.

Two Air Force sergeants arrived and removed the fuse from the grenade. It had no powder in it.

Back-tracking through a substitute teacher who was on duty in the third grade Tuesday, police found the grenade was brought to school by 8-year-old Gary Fischer for "show and tell" purposes.

Larry Fischer said his son found the grenade Sunday. Fischer said he shook some rust out of it, soaked it in water and gave it back to the boy.

"I was certain it was a dud," he said.

Let us review our verb "keys" (A is English; B is Spanish; C is sound that produces Spanish pronunciation):

"Key" #1-A) I want to go to eat. B) Quiero ir a comer. C) key-AIR-o/ear/ah/co-MARE.

"Key" #2-A) I am going to go to eat. B) Voy a ir a comer. C) voy/ah/ear/ah/co-MARE.

"Key" #3-A) I went to eat (I ate). B) Fui a comer. C) foo-EE/ah/co/MARE.

"Key" #4-A) I can eat. B) Puedo comer. C) poo-AID-doe/co-MARE.

With these "keys" you can employ ANY and ALL Spanish verbs in their infinitive form. Also, you can add to these "keys" the following:

Present tense-A) do you; B) y usted; C) e/oo-STEAD.

Past Tense-A) did you; B) y usted; C) e/oo-STEAD.

Future Tense -A) will you; B) y usted; C) e/oo-STEAD

Notice how the meaning of 'y usted' changes with the tense change. It will follow the same changes through all tenses, i.e., 'I could go, AND YOU?' would bear the same meaning as 'I COULD GO, COULD YOU?'.

See how valuable 'y usted', 'y nosotros todos' and 'y ellos' are? They follow the verb meaning. Another example:

A) I can go, can you? B) Puedo ir, y usted? C) poo-AID-o/ear, /e/oo-STEAD

Isn't this an interesting point? Practice 'y usted', 'y nosotros todos' and 'y ellos' with the verbs you already know and you will see that you can say: I can dance, can you? (y usted?), I am going to eat, are we all? (y nosotros todos?), I want to swim, do they? (y ellos?)

Thus, you can ask questions in the present, past and future with all verbs. Aren't these "keys" keen?

See how valuable 'y usted', 'y nosotros todos' and 'y ellos' are? They follow the verb meaning. Another example: A) I can go, can you? B) Puedo ir, y usted? C) poo-AID-o/ear, /e/oo-STEAD

Isn't this an interesting point? Practice 'y usted', 'y nosotros todos' and 'y ellos' with the verbs you already know and you will see that you can say: I can dance, can you? (y usted?), I am going to eat, are we all? (y nosotros todos?), I want to swim, do they? (y ellos?)

Thus, you can ask questions in the present, past and future with all verbs. Aren't these "keys" keen?

Hawkins Funeral To be on Friday

WYATT -- Funeral services for Mrs. Della McElmurry Hawkins, of this community, who died suddenly in Cairo, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Friday in the First Christian Church of Charleston of which she had been an active member. The Rev. Robert L. Burke will officiate and interment will be in the Odd Fellows Cemetery with the Nunnelee Funeral Chapel of Charleston in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Hawkins was the widow of the late J. W. Hawkins and prominent in social and religious circles. She was a member of the Eastern Star; the W.S.C.S. of Wyatt; the W.C.T.U. and the Rebekahs.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. E. S. Nelson of Wyatt; foster daughter, Mrs. Opal Judy DeLine of St. Louis; a grand daughter and a foster grand daughter.

Steal $35,000 Worth of Furs and Jewels

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Burglars invaded a plush apartment in the Country Club Plaza Tuesday night and Mrs. Victor E. Schutte, prominent business woman and civic leader, told police her loss in furs and jewels probably will exceed $35,000.

They disappeared between the time she left the Regency House at 6:30 and returned at 9:45. Listed as missing were a mink coat, three mink jackets, a mink cape, a diamond bracelet valued at $6,000 and a diamond studded aquamarine set — earrings, bracelet and necklace — valued at $15,000.

Thieves stole jewelry valued at $21,500 from another apartment at the Regency House in December. In 1956, when Mrs. Schutte was living in another apartment, burglars stole $5,000 worth of furs and jewelry.

Mrs. Schutte is head of the Schutte Lumber Co. and a director of the Southeast State Bank. Her husband died in 1951. His father founded the lumber firm in 187[illegible].

Senate Expense Account Lists $2,660.00

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many odd, unrelated and fascinating facts about the Senate came to light Wednesday with the publication of a six-month report by its secretary, Felton M. Johnson.

For example:

The Senate spent $2.66 million on "miscellaneous" items, which is more than the $2,471,000 the members and the vice president draw in pay.

It costs $58,370 to transport members from Washington to their homes twice a session.

Last July the Senate bought 72 whiskbrooms for $38.88 and spent $11.88 having its service knives sharpened and $25.85 repairing its sewing machine. Unaccountably, it also invested $27.90 in alpaca coats and $449.05 in 25 blankets in that steaming month.

The Senate library, playing it safe after the July Republican national convention, bought two copies each of two books about Barry Goldwater. The total outlay was $3.50.

Last July was a busy month and the senators used up $46,722 in long-distance telephoning while paying out $33,538 for local phone service. The bill for official telegrams, rendered in August, ran to $62,953.

July and August often found the senators and their staffs thirsty. The Senate was billed $479 for bottled water in July and $688 in August.

Going social, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee put on a series of luncheons for visiting dignitaries. The layout for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany ran $339.78. But the committee got by with $3.60 in party snacks when it entertained Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto of Pakistan.

Senators get $2,400 a year in stationery allowance. What they don't use they can keep. But the Internal Revenue Service has decreed they must pay income taxes on the residue.

In the period covered by Johnson's report, Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., apparently was low on stationery and used up $2,206.45 of his allowance. Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, seemed to have been well stocked. He drew only $5.82 worth.

Bertrand News

Lou Childress taught the primary teacher I can just see Frank Childress was a meanie-he'd untie Aunt Nettie Childress apron she could make best corn cake & lasses for breakfast.
Mr. Jim Childress said my day went around country side saying its a big, fat, black curly head girl baby. I guess! Doc Rowe was doctor. I was born in a 2 room house up on North Road going 2 Charleston. Not far from Mink Williams place.
Me, my Mom & Pop, Fannie, Reuben Bush & Mark Hall hired hand all lived in a 2 room shack my mom went 2 milk one nite came hack said Joe big black bear up the road Joe grabs his gun goes up the road. It was a big black stump. First bear I ever saw a man brot a bear 2 the Gray School house for us 2 see. Medicine shows would come 2 Bertrand in those days.
I regret the passing of Mrs. Charlie Blanton, Sr. Ollie White Sikeston & Rev. Albert Cooper, & Doctor Cornwall Charleston, now Maude Marsh broke hip--after breaking leg years ago, so did Dolp Marsh. I went with Albert Marsh, Noah Strickland's horse kicked Albert Marsh & killed him Frank Marsh is thinking of staying out here while his sister Maude is in Sikeston hospital. I see friend Betty Lou Wagner of near Diehlstadt has been dismissed from Sikeston hospital after blood poisoning.
Cholly forgot 2 put in 4 or five banks of Sikeston in Saturday's addition. My George has been 2 see me went 2 see Eulre Bush Mrs. Bowman & Marshall Craig Sikeston. I see Edyth Bush is visiting her cousin Eula Bush in the Fletcher appartments.
Sikeston visitors out here the Le Grand family-Mr. & Mrs. Sam Wilcox, Gray Ladies Warren Women Bertha Collier.

Friday Opening Of Dunn Coffee Shop

The Dunn Coffee Shop will again be open to the public, when Mrs. Mary V. Schillig, 734 N. Taylor, will have her opening early Friday morning. She is a native of Sikeston, and for the past 12 years owned and operated the Half-way Cafe, north of Sikeston.
The coffee shop has been rearranged and all new kitchen equipment added, and will feature hickory cured ham breakfasts, steak and chicken dinners and plate lunches. She will also take charge of the Gourmet Room, where she expects to give expert catering service to public gatherings.
Assisting her in the dining room will be Mrs. Mary Parker, while the kitchen will be in charge of Mrs. Lorane Turner, Trecie Vanover, Mrs. Clarence Morris and Mr. Pearl James.
Mrs. Schillig is the widow of the late Sid Schillig. A granddaughter, Teresa Hamelman, makes her home with her.

Bertrand News

Lou Childress taught the primary teacher I can just see Frank Childress was a meanie-he'd untie Aunt Nettie Childress apron she could make best corn cake & lasses for breakfast.
Mr. Jim Childress said my day went around country side saying its a big, fat, black curly head girl baby. I guess! Doc Rowe was doctor. I was born in a 2 room house up on North Road going 2 Charleston. Not far from Mink Williams place.
Me, my Mom & Pop, Fannie, Reuben Bush & Mark Hall hired hand all lived in a 2 room shack my mom went 2 milk one nite came hack said Joe big black bear up the road Joe grabs his gun goes up the road. It was a big black stump. First bear I ever saw a man brot a bear 2 the Gray School house for us 2 see. Medicine shows would come 2 Bertrand in those days.
I regret the passing of Mrs. Charlie Blanton, Sr. Ollie White Sikeston & Rev. Albert Cooper, & Doctor Cornwall Charleston, now Maude Marsh broke hip--after breaking leg years ago, so did Dolp Marsh. I went with Albert Marsh, Noah Strickland's horse kicked Albert Marsh & killed him Frank Marsh is thinking of staying out here while his sister Maude is in Sikeston hospital. I see friend Betty Lou Wagner of near Diehlstadt has been dismissed from Sikeston hospital after blood poisoning.
Cholly forgot 2 put in 4 or five banks of Sikeston in Saturday's addition. My George has been 2 see me went 2 see Eulre Bush Mrs. Bowman & Marshall Craig Sikeston. I see Edyth Bush is visiting her cousin Eula Bush in the Fletcher appartments.
Sikeston visitors out here the Le Grand family-Mr. & Mrs. Sam Wilcox, Gray Ladies Warren Women Bertha Collier.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
March 4, 1915

What came near being a second Titanic disaster was narrowly averted by rare presence of mind, on the second ditch near the Stallcup farm, south of Sikeston one day last week. The ditch had been widened and deepened to let the land drain better and where the incident occurred was a depth of about 15 feet. Lynn Stallcup and C. E. Dover were at this point transferring a gasoline engine from an old launch to a new one when the old launch began to sink. The engine sank and the two men were thrown into the water. They reached shore and it was reported that Lynn was still holding his cigar in his mouth and it was afire when he crawled upon

The roadmaster of the Iron Mt. Railroad informs us that the laying of heavy rails on their line will commence at once. Tools and supplies have been ordered and two extra crews will have charge of the work. Work will start at Charleston and rails will be laid to Morehouse at the earliest possible moment.

Paul Brewer of Bertrand, who is a student in the Chillicothe Business College, was selected as a model in the fashion show given in Chillicothe, Feb. 26, and participated in by the clothing stores of that city.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Anthony were called to Fredericktown Monday on account of the death of Dr. Anthony's father, who had been ill for over two years.

Gordon Blanton entertained a number of boy friends Thursday afternoon in honor of his 13th birthday. The following were guests: J. M. Law, Charles Prow, Tris Marshall, Lyman Mitchell, William Patterson, Lynn Galeener, Bunny Beck, Charles Brenton, Lawrence Adams, Pat Adams, Hardin Smith, John Denman, Carl Erdmann, Robert Dempster, Billy Tanner, Steve and Albert Humphrey, Kemper Burton, Ralph Bailey and John R. Sellards.

Felix Robertson is building a new home in the E. C. Matthews addition. It will be a five-room bungalow.

Construction work on the Rex Theatre on Center Street will be completed by today, according to W. L. Hughes, contractor for the remodeling project.

An ice cream manufacturing machine, the only one of its kind in Sikeston, was installed Thursday in the Malone Drug Store. An ice cream mixture, prepared at the Pet Milk plant at Neosho, Mo., consisting of exceptionally fine ingredients which conform to strict government regulations, is sent here in 10-gallon thermos jugs. The mixture is then poured into one-and-a-half gallon metal containers, in which it is properly flavored and stirred and either placed in a three-gallon freezer or stored in a compartment of the machine. While the ice cream is being frozen seven minutes it is also mixed, but before it is entirely hard it is allowed to run out into different size paper containers or large cans.

Unless they work on the city streets in payment for fines, jail inmates will be fed only bread and water, members of the newly formed police commission decided at their first meeting, held Friday evening in Robert Dempster's office. Heretofore the prisoners have been given ordinary meals.

March 4, 1945

Mrs. E. M. Crooks has moved from the farm where she resided many years to a cottage on the John G. Russell farm north of Sikeston.

Mr. and Mrs. Drury Wake, residents here the past several years, have gone to Fairfax, Mo., where the former will await his call for army service. During their residence here, Mr. Wake operated a drag-line near Morehouse.

Mrs. Steve Humphrey is recovering satisfactorily from the effects of injuries received in a fall while leaving the Methodist church several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fritzius and four sons are new residents of Sikeston, having moved here recently from Blytheville, Ark.

Time 2 write Hill Billy news I remember when a small child --it took all day 2 go 2 Charleston -- Sikeston & back. Sometimes we walked & rode--in a new spring wagon. My Pop bought the first team of mules around here. Walter Lee of Charleston, Mo. went 2 Europe -brot over a hole boat-load of mules. In those days Sikeston, Mo. had about 400 inhabitants Ned Sikes came into town on a black horse, named it Sikeston. The court house was in Sikeston way back when-one bank, small white brick structure. Old man Matthews established that bank-cause he owned land in Scott County.

Went to Sikeston 2 pay our taxes. My Pop hitched up his 2 red mules green spring wagon--spring seat. He & my Mom sat on front seat. They put straw in bottom of wagon & quilt for brother Reuben Bush--Sister Fannie & me--hitch the team at a lumber yard--for 25 cts a day. Glass of beer 5 cts. We ate crackers & cheese for lunch & shopped--at Need Sikes Store.

In those days we rode in covered wagon 2 Silom Springs Creel Springs Illinois. The team of mules swam the Missippi River. Ice would form on Miss. River. We would walk across.

Subject of Church School lesson Sun-was -- Key 2 The Kingdon by Paul Decker.

In Sikeston Sat. edition spoke of archeoligists we are decended from cave men--bones found from 300 2 20,000 years ago. We lived a nomads life hunted & fished shot wild turkeys ducks and geese doves. Gathered Pawpas, persimmons wild grapes huckel berries chickepins, mulberries made ink out of mulberrys wrote with a quill pin out Turkeys.

Trimmed hats with Rooster feathers-perfume out of roses stuffed pillows with rose petals scated on ponds of ice. Rode saplins, grape vines, We rode pigs & billy goats played in the sand made mud pies; tacked carpet rags. Picked geese for feather beds carried in wood. Made fires all winter.

Got a doll & doll bed for Christmas they said if I didn't learn 2 milk theyed tie me 2 old cows tail-- So Florencie learned 2 milk--milked help my mom milk six cows pump water for mules & horses walked 3 miles 2 school at Little Red school house. Anna Bloomeyer sent me picture of Little Red school house 3 miles back.

Sometimes Uncle Bill Coolier would carry me in basket--Bill Childress carried me 2. Russell School - Wallace Fisher our neighbor was principal of Russell School near Charleston, Mo.
